A Change from the Old . . .

Our lives might be described as kaleidoscopes of change, each new day bringing new experiences and new challenges. Perhaps the greatest challenge is the acceptance of change, adapting our lives to unfamiliar patterns.

This past year, we were faced with an especially difficult challenge. We left the security of a familiar old building and entered a new school, an environment demanding adjustments in our school life. This book depicts our adjustments and acceptances of these CHANGING PATTERNS.

"It's a new building and a whole new experience for everyone, but somehow it doesn't seem altogether different from last year. I mean, lots of things are different, but most things are the same, the kids, the teachers, the day-to-day routine. The new school is just a modern replica of the old plant."

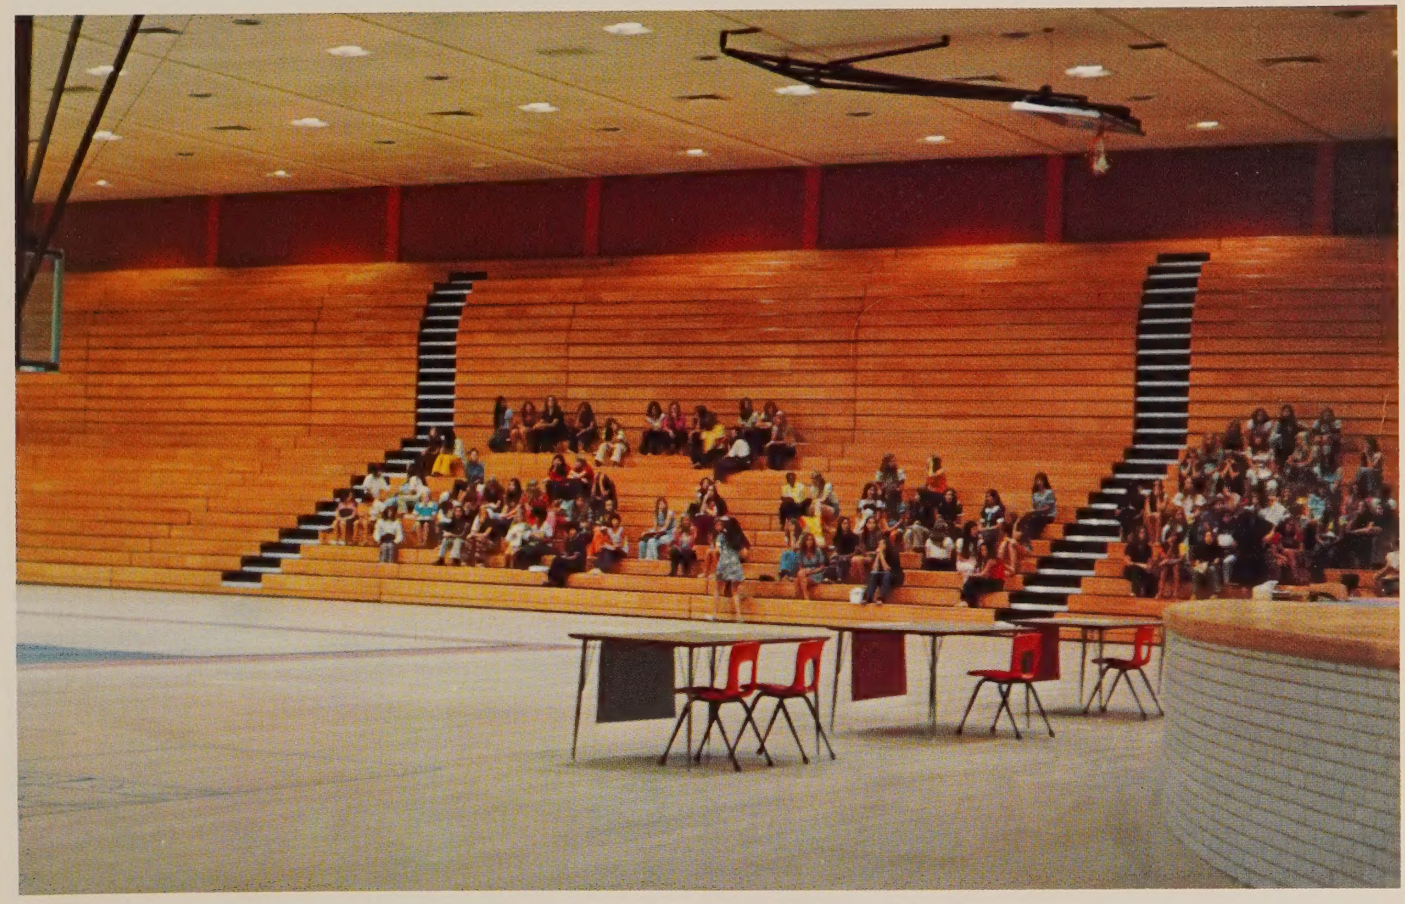
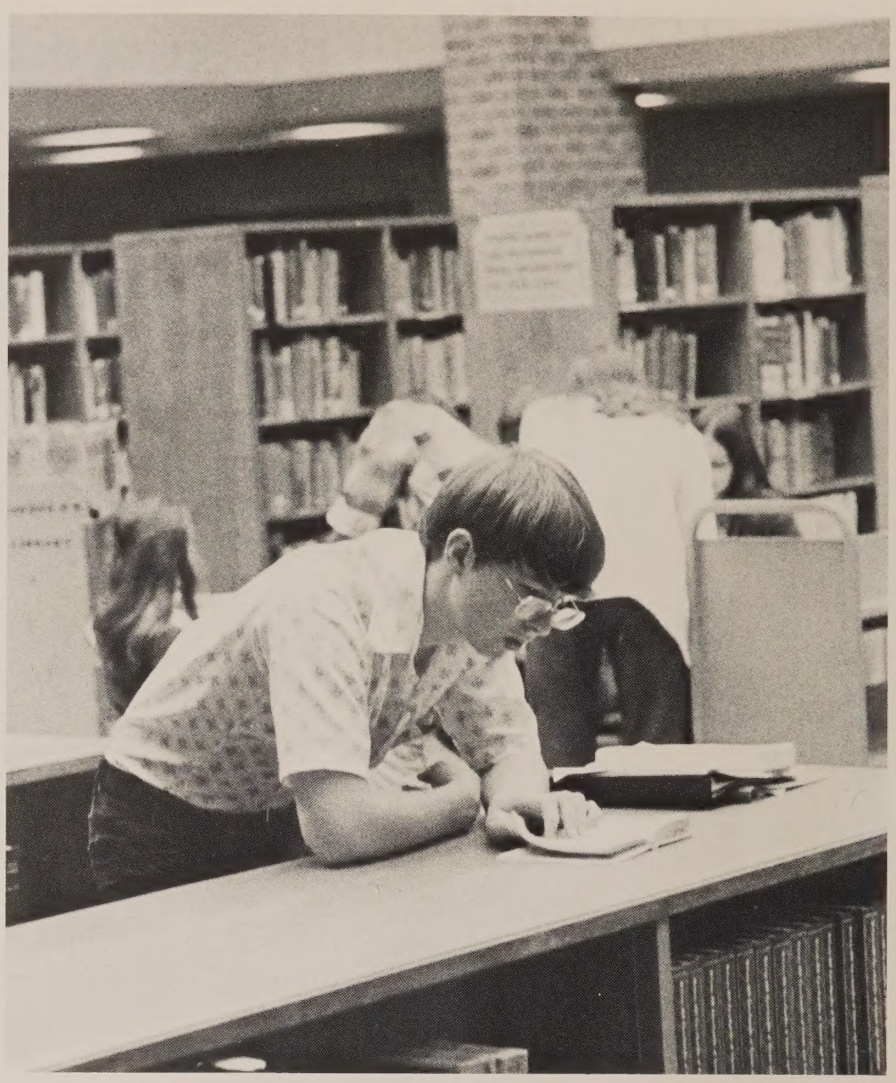
. . . The New Plant



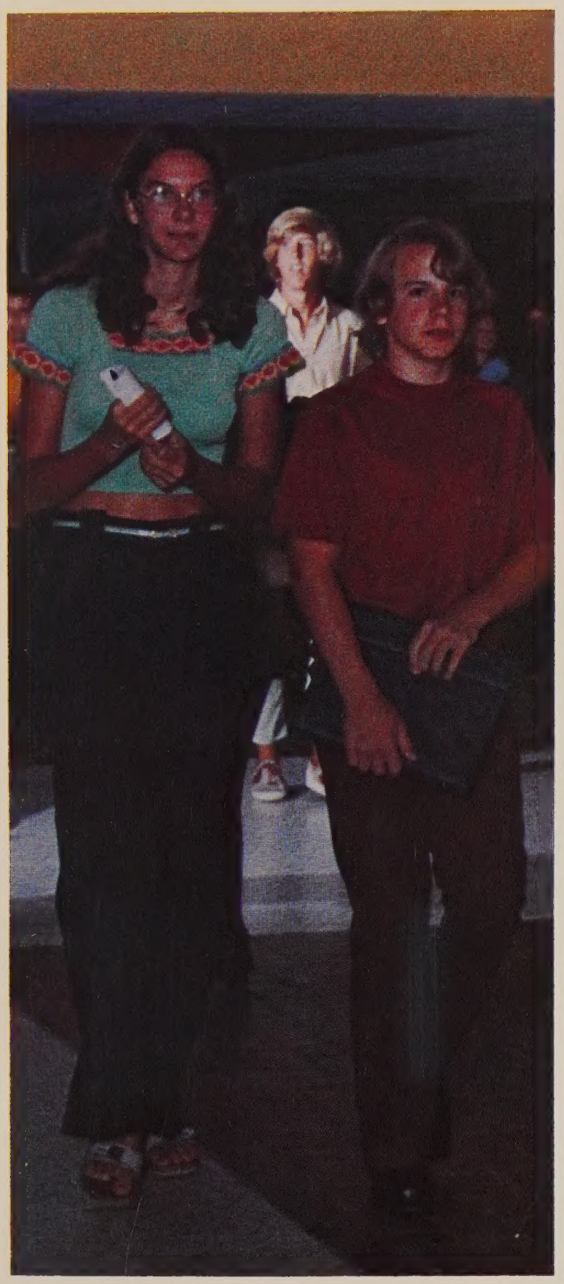
The student handbook became an invaluable source as it directed students through the school. Underclass students get a glimpse of the "upper world" during class breaks. Mt. Vernon's new monstrosity—the field house. Students go marching one by one.

An Expanded Environment

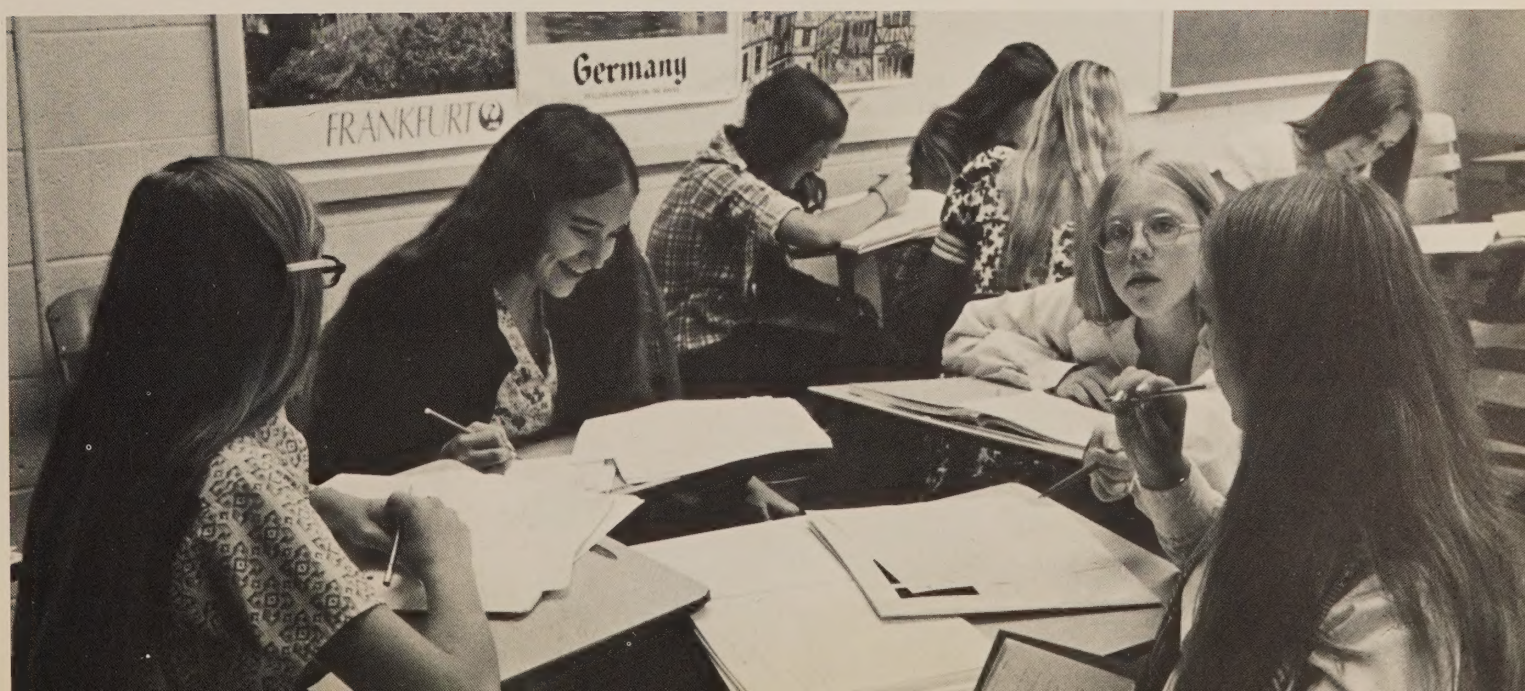
The crowded classes and closet-size workrooms have become history to the students of Mount Vernon. In a new and modern plant, we are now able to take advantage of spacious classrooms, seminar rooms, and a tremendous, new gymnasium. The new plant has provided an expanded environment for learning.



The new media center gives students the opportunity to do independent study. The first weeks were slightly disorganized, but classes continued to run smoothly. The open space allows students to walk down uncrowded hallways. Students can take advantage of the carpeted media center and the private seminar rooms. The traditional classrooms are still present in the language departments.

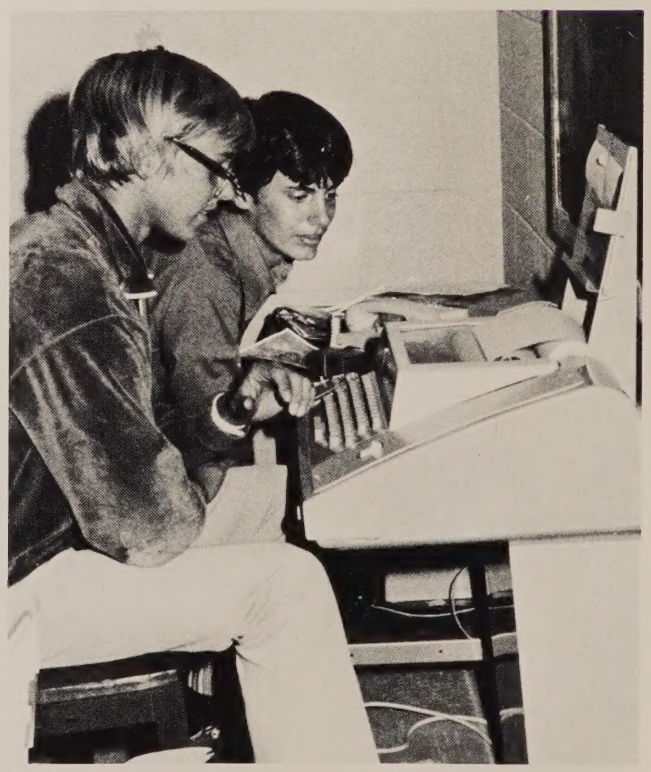


"The building is unbelievably big. For once I can walk down a hall without knocking into lockers and people. It's nice, for a change to have some breathing room and empty space."



We Learn More Than the Academics

We come to school to learn, to study the writings of the Ancient Romans, the laws of science, and the history of our country. But more than just learning the academics, school provides us with the opportunity to learn about ourselves and other people. Through socializing with people and friends, we are able to exchange important ideas and add to our scopes of understanding. Academics are important to our basic knowledge, but it is only completed when we can also learn about ourselves through music, literature and the sharing of new ideas among people.



"I understand that some kids are geared towards academic learning, but I'm glad that the school curriculum is such that people like myself can pursue other interests. I've probably learned as much in band as someone else has in Chemistry."

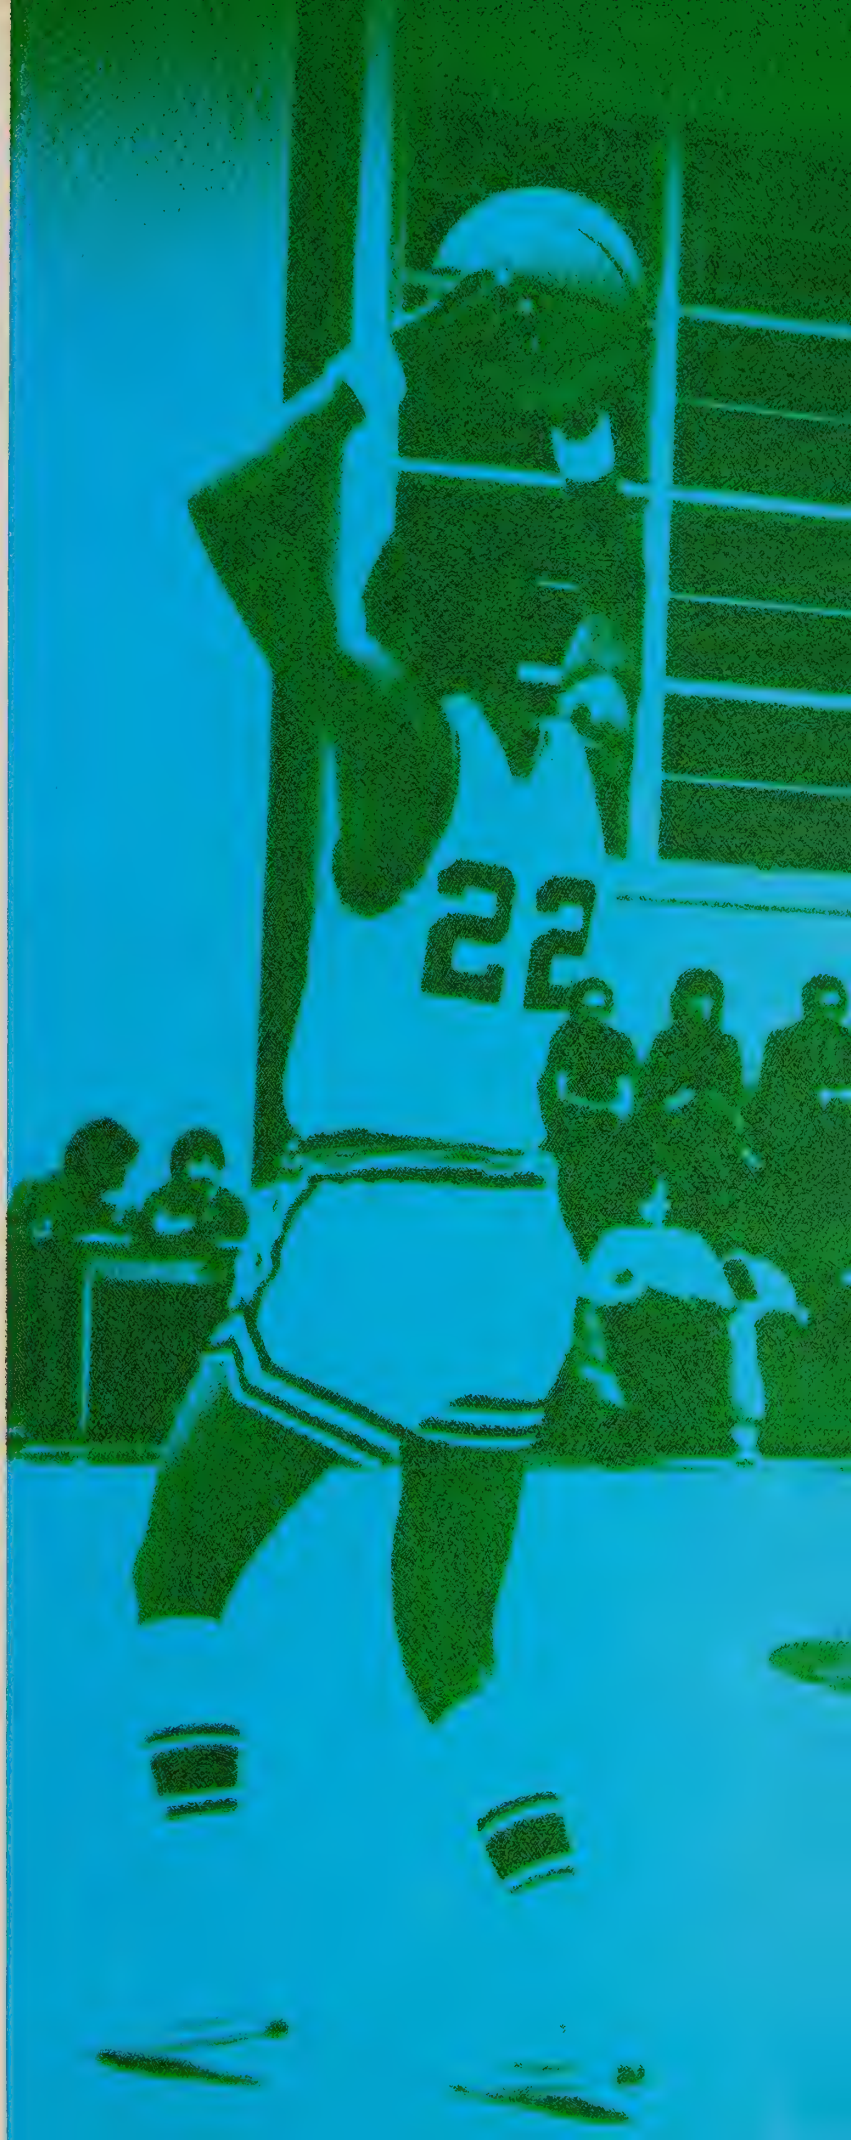
The plant kingdom is one of the wider fields of biological study. A band member learns the joy of music. There are those students at Mount Vernon who enjoy the computer, housed in a cubby hole. By singing, we learn to come together in harmony. Acting the role of the scientist can be an educational experience.

Mighty Majors Spark Spirit

Students may move from one Mt. Vernon to another, but when the sports seasons begin, there is no doubt that we're the same loyal fans and the same Mighty Majors. This year the teams sparked a unique kind of spirit in the students. The kind of spirit that involves pride in one's team and in their efforts to win.

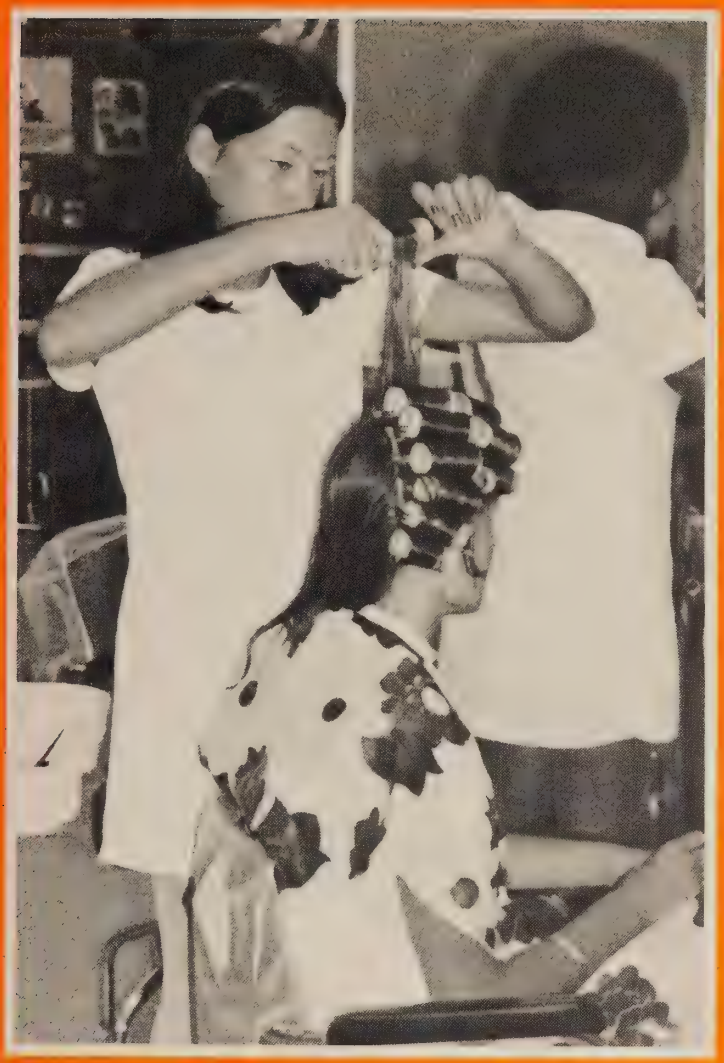
The Majors faced many changes this year. Some of them played at new home courts and others on strange, new fields. But they retained a traditional spirit, a winning spirit, that made the transition from one school to another, a little easier to accomplish.

M.V. trackmen cross the line of victory. Jack Bass on the move. Diane Fortney dribbles down the field. He's reaching high for two points.



Learning to Apply Personal Talents

The new Mount Vernon has shown the capabilities of housing many diverse study programs under one roof. While the Liberal Arts program of English and Government is still relevant to many students, some are finding other interests of study. Some students are preparing themselves for practical trades by learning the needed skills. Programs such as Art, Cosmetology, Auto Shop and Home Economics are geared towards making use of the personal talents of many unique individuals.



"Each person is like a splash of color in a big painting . . . seemingly not important but necessary to complete the picture."

Auto shop workers learn the mechanics of car operation. Students learn the essentials of typing. Student models participate in a fashion show. Future beauticians practice their skills. A Home Ec student seems pleased with her new machine. Is this an example of modern art?

"A school isn't a building, it's the people that go to it. The people at Mount Vernon haven't changed, they still care about others and that's really great. Also, there's still the feeling of pride within the classes and a spirit of competition."

Faculty

"I am a teacher."

"Now, just what does that mean? It means I plan and prepare lessons (endlessly, of course). I go to basketball games, plays, and concerts, because Matthew, from my second period, is a sports fan, Jimmy, from my sixth period, is a ham, and Paula, from my third period, sings in the Madrigals. (I think this is called student/teacher rapport.) I tolerate noise, confusion, excuses, P.A. announcements, paper wads, and ringing bells, as I attempt to innovate, motivate, and stimulate learning. I eat T.V. dinners, breakfast squares, and school lunches (yuk!). I attend endless meetings (mostly boring) and meet endless deadlines (always just under the wire). I read mountains of papers, while armed with my trusty red pen.

"But I am a teacher . . . and I do care."

Administration Equals Dedication

Administration Equals:
navigation
inspiration association participation elevation observation
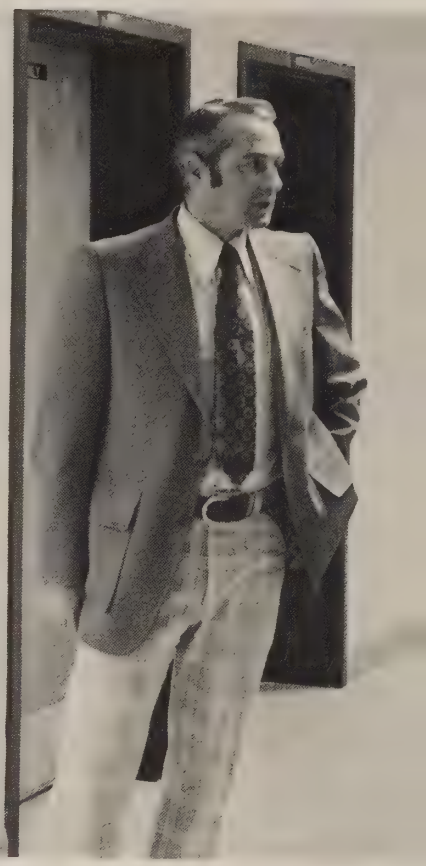
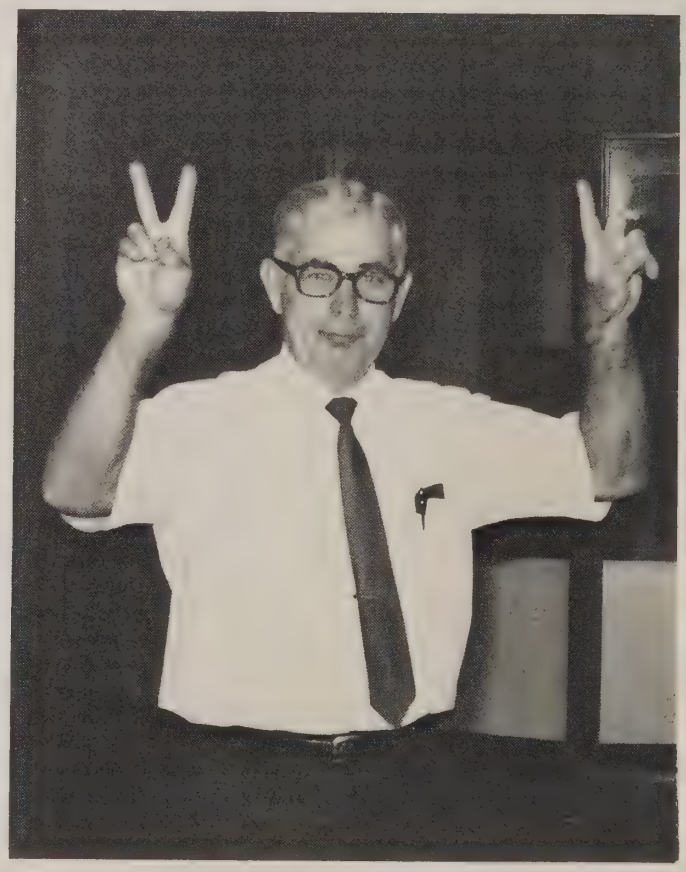
admiration
And in Essence:
Our Education

The new atmosphere this year gave our administration the chance to divide Mount Vernon into sub schools. The "underworld" of the freshman and sophomores was contained in Sub School I, headed by Mr. Propps, and located on the lower floor. The reign of Sub School II belonged to the juniors and seniors on the second floor, with their fearless leader, Mr. "Kaz".



THOMAS J. HYER
PRINCIPAL

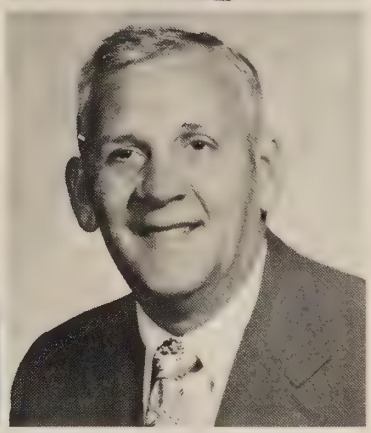


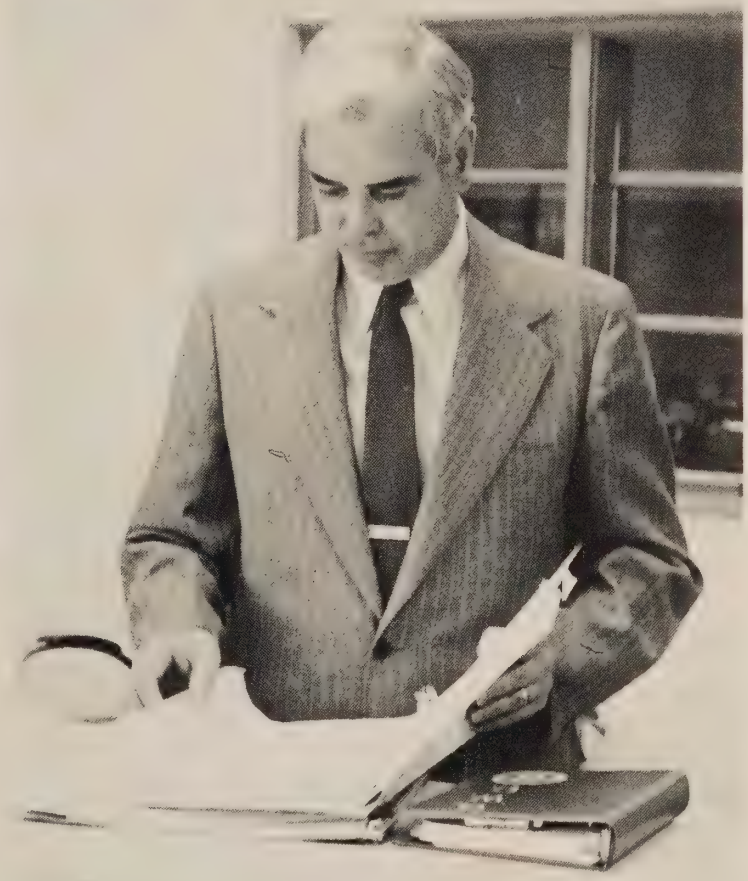
MR. VICTOR KAZLAUSKY
Sub-School II Principal

MR. THOMAS PROPPS
Sub-School I Principal

MR. FRANK BERNARD
Assistant Principal for Instructional Services

MR. MICHAEL SKINNER
Administrative Aide





"Look here, sonny . . ." comforts Mr. Propps. "I'll be right there," remarks Mr. Hyer. "Peace" imitates Mr. Kaz. "Let's keep those buses truckin'," says Mr. Skinner. Mr. Bernard puzzles over administrative work.

Guiding, directing, and aiming for our futures is what guidance is all about. Wading through stacks of papers about career information and endless files of student records is no simple task. Guidance requires time, energy, and boundless understanding of the needs and desires of the student body. A counselor is an aid to students in many ways. Guidance is giving of yourself and taking the greatest of personal satisfaction in return.

MRS. HELEN MACHONIS
Guidance Secretary.

"Hello, may I help you?" "Do you have a note from home?" Such are the questions asked by the secretaries at MV High. Secretaries efficiently carry out such tasks as answering endless telephone calls, typing letters and checking on tardy students.

While the secretaries are busy in the offices, our faithful librarians are hard at work in the Media Center . . . "Where can I find a book on the migrating habits of a warthog?" "Well . . . uh . . ." Our secretaries and librarians may sometimes be behind the scenes, but what would we ever do without them?

Mrs. McCarthy is hard at work, as always. "Click, click, click . . ." types Mrs. Dewispwlarere. "Sure, come on in!" says Mrs. Clark. The camera catches Mrs. Wilson with her cheerful smile. "Now, where did I put that book on poetry?" ponders Mrs. Barker.

MRS. RITA McCARTHY
Office Secretary.

MRS. OSHIMA
ADP Operator.

MRS. HELEN TIPA
Librarian, Secretary.

Speak Unto Others as You Would Speak to Your

Scene: MV English class.
Time: First day of school.
Teacher: John, read your essay.
John: "Who Is I?"
I is a student and I ain't got no more to say.
Teacher: Please sit down.
Time: Last day of school.
Teacher: Read your essay.
John: "Who Am I?"
I am a student at MV High, and most of who I am is reflected in my speech. After a year of English, I have discovered what it means to be able to express myself in the best way possible.
Teacher: Excellent!

MR. DAVID CLARKE

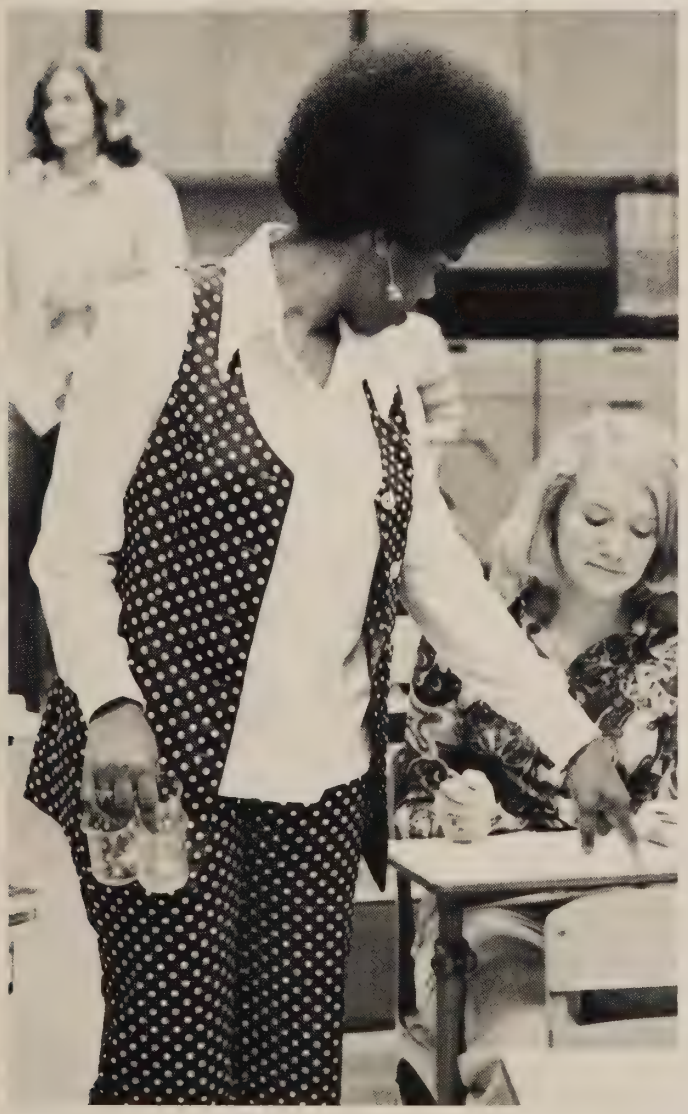
MR. DAVID SUHRE
Chemistry, Earth Science.

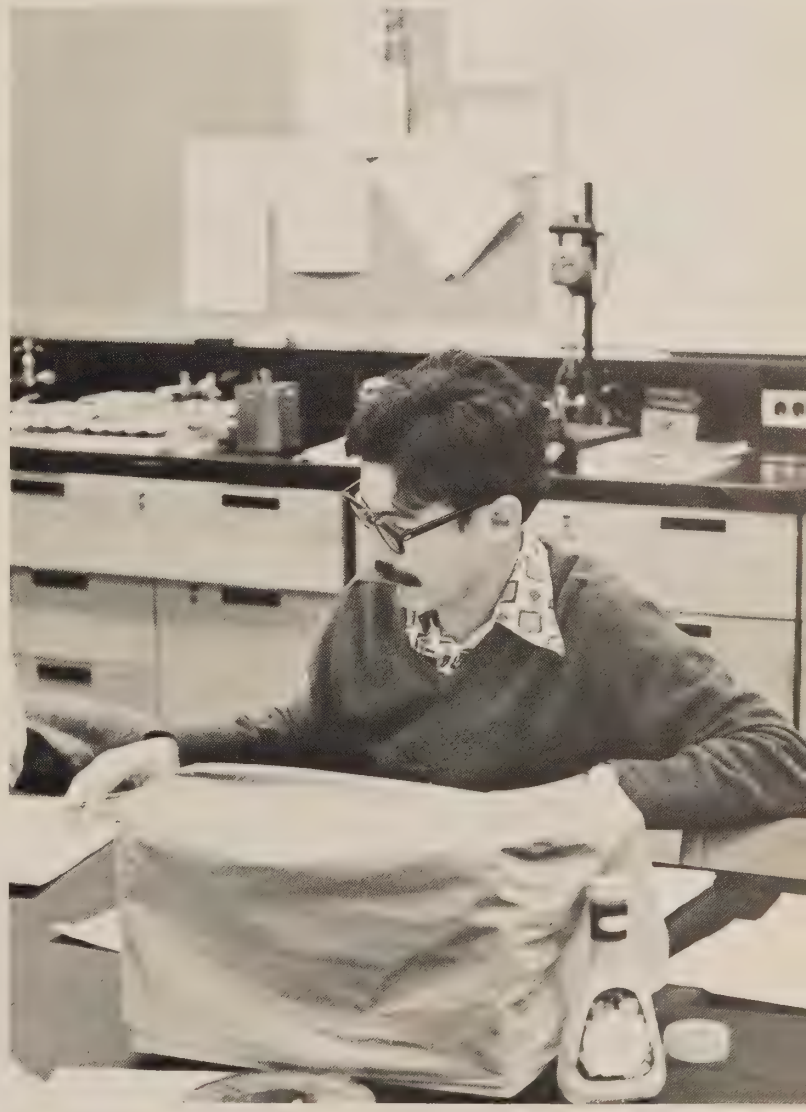
"Let's grow big and strong, now—o.k.?" Mr. Dirner says to his plant. Mr. Swain lectures to his class on the pros and cons of disecting a frog.

Science Inputs Ideas and Outputs Knowledge

Science isn't just disecting frogs, memorizing formulas, calculating data, and learning how mirrors reflect light. Science is grasping ideas and forming conclusions-ready to take a hypothesis and prove it with facts and objectivity. The necessity of science in our society cannot be denied; neither can it be denied that scientists are bred in high school.

"Let me tell you," remarks Mrs. Harder. "This is the wrong equation for that problem," Mrs. Baker points out. Mr. Suhre certainly looks involved in that chemistry equation, doesn't he?





The Wonderful World of Math

$(x + y)^2$ x 2 is the only answer that will do,
Subtraction, fractions,
Graphs and squares and sines,
Relations, functions,
Points and roots and lines.
Algebra, technology,

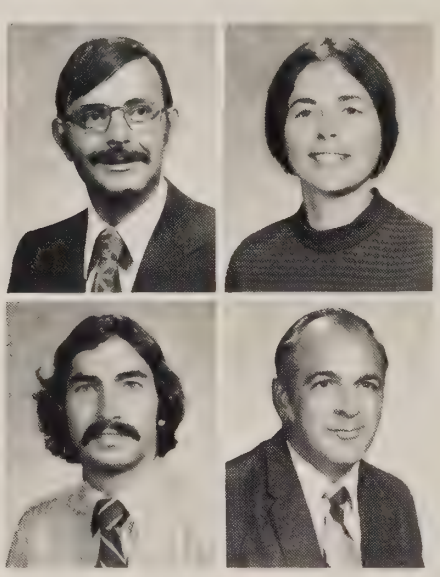
MR. JIM SPARLING
U.S. History, Freshman Basketball and Baseball Coach.

MR. GEORGE WHITE
World Geography, Intramural Bowling.



Social studies not only pertains to dates and facts, but also to economics, government, psychology, and sociology. The area of social studies is wide and varied, but the history teachers of Mount Vernon are well equipped to handle each section. Students learn the law of supply and demand; they delve into the legislative branch of our government, and discover the responses of the mind. Reports on reform movements, both past and present, were given, and such aspects of our society as mercy killing and war were discussed. Most of all, pupils learned that the history they create today makes the history of tomorrow.

"Aren't you going to be my girlfriend anymore?" Mr. Lyons asks one of his female students. "I heard that!" laughs Mr. Match. Mr. Patrick very, very patiently listens to one of his students.

If at First You Cannot Type—Try, Try Again

Business education involves a wide variety of clerical skills, from consumer mathematics and accounting to stenography. Learning to type is much easier said than done. The business education department is there to instruct students in the various skills, and enable them to cope in the fast-paced, ever-changing world of today.

"f, g, f, g, . . . x?" asks Mrs. Lam. "How did you ever manage to type the letter upside-down?" questions Mrs. O'Neil.

Physical Education and Health

Education not only builds the minds of today's youth but their bodies as well. Participation in individual and team activities such as ping pong and gymnastics were stressed in the Physical Education classes this year. As well as new equipment, the new school even provided a nice atmosphere for square dancing. Physical Education and Health builds strong bodies in many ways.

"And here we have four women drivers . . ." remarks Mr. Foglio. "And they said this job was gonna be easy . . ." contemplates Mr. Millan.

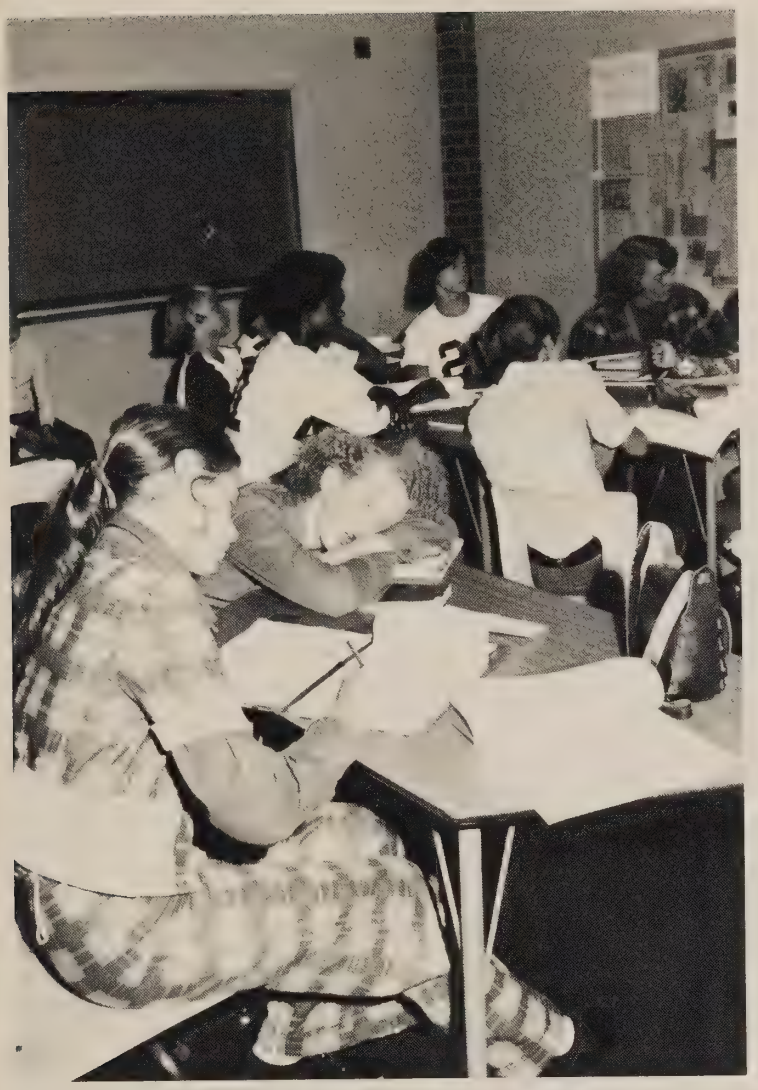
Classes



"Our Freshman year has been the beginning of a new kind of life, with added responsibilities. We have faced a new school, but unlike other freshmen, we were not the only ones alien to the building. For once, everyone was new."

"In reflection, this Sophomore year has been like a stepping stone. We weren't new to high school life, yet we realized that it's a long way to graduation. It was a good in-between period because we got to know and learn from each other."

"Our Junior year gave us a year of security; we enjoyed the advantages of being upperclassmen without having the problems of making decisions for our futures. Next year we'll face those decisions, but until then we'll enjoy one more year of high school."

"Our Senior year is over and now we face the future. The football games, pep rallies, all the parties and all the carefree fun are behind us. We've grown together and shared our lives. We've laughed and joked, but most importantly, we've learned that changes are necessary, for if we allow ourselves to stagnate, life passes us without waiting."

Sophomores Grow In Unity

"The Class of '76 entered the new school with anticipation of an active year. We began work early with class bakesales and carwashes. At Homecoming, we distinguished ourselves by winning first place in the skit contest and also presenting a class float. We worked hard to make this an exciting year and now look forward to next year when we can join the upperclassmen upstairs."

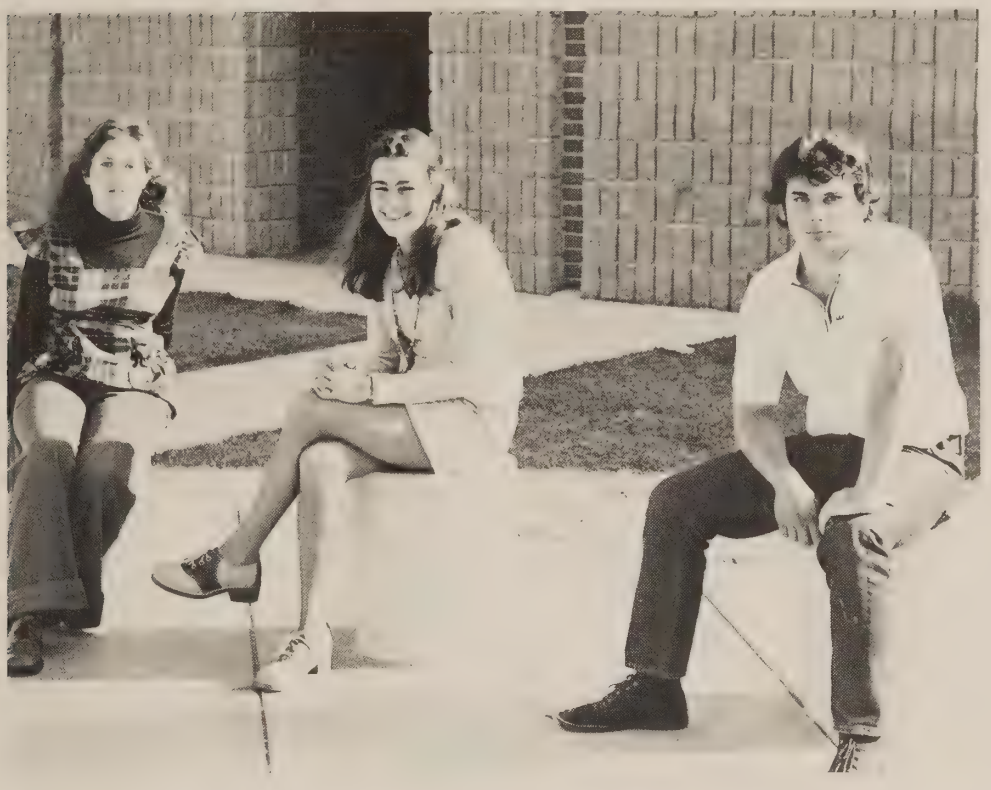
Juniors Show Involvement and Spirit



The Junior Class became involved in many activities throughout the year. They sponsored one of the most successful homecomings in years, besides creating an imaginative float on the theme of fairy tales. As the first Junior Class to attend the new school, they held bake sales to raise money; participated enthusiastically in all varsity pep rallies, often winning the pep jug and they sponsored a candy cane sale that was hindered by holiday snow. All in all the Junior Class has a very successful and satisfying year at the new Mount Vernon.

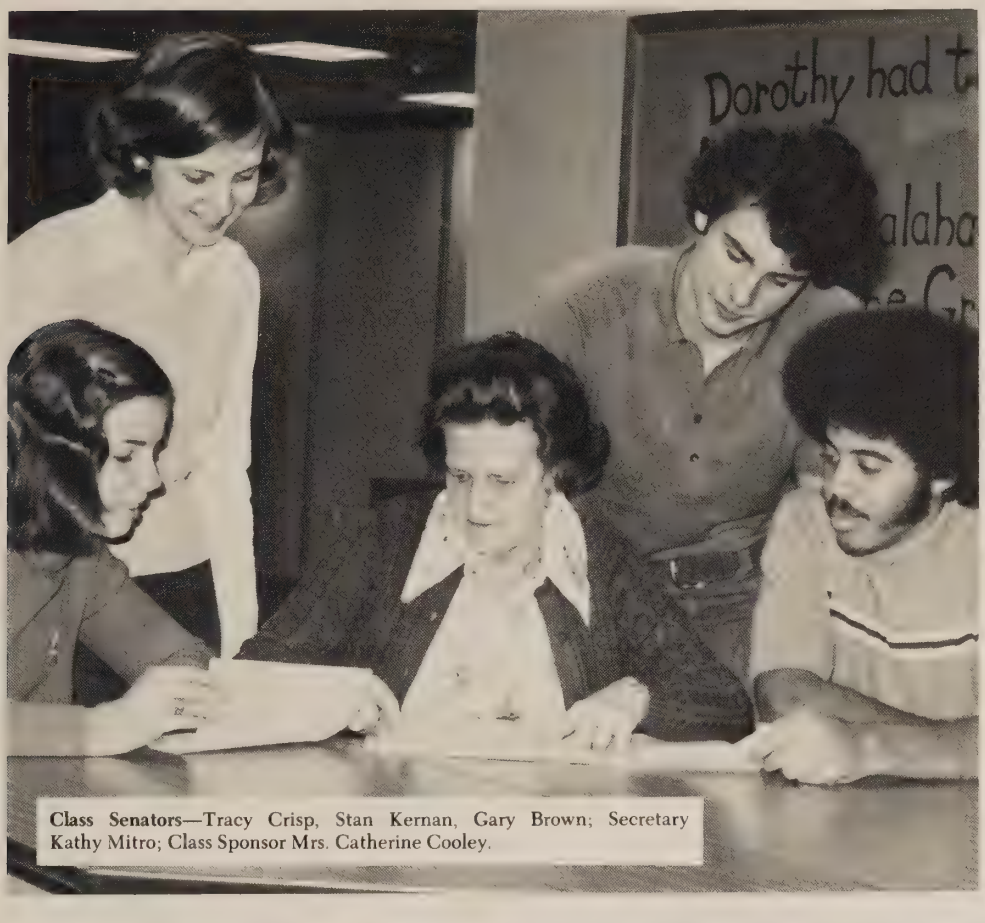
Seniors Take Hold and Continue to Lead



Class Senators—Tracy Crisp, Stan Kernan, Gary Brown; Secretary Kathy Mitro; Class Sponsor Mrs. Catherine Cooley.

"After four long, but happy years, the class of '74 is more than ready to venture out into the world. Many new things await us as we step out of Constitution Hall. With diplomas in hand, both fear and wonder may possess us, but we know that we can rely on our past experiences and friends to help us in the future."

"Sharing the mixed feelings of "we're getting out" and "I don't really want to leave," the Seniors say goodbye. We leave, knowing that experience has been our best teacher, especially the experience of Mount Vernon."

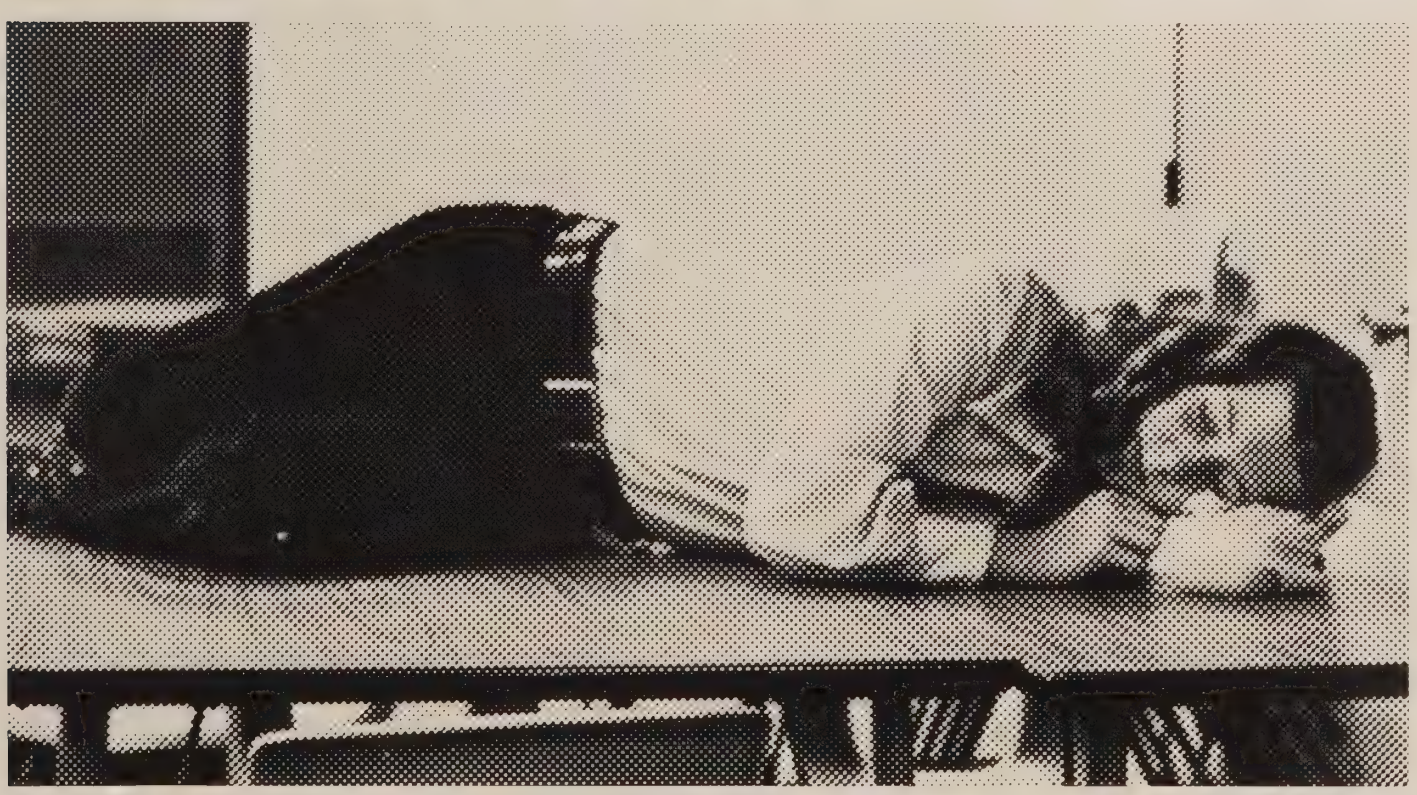
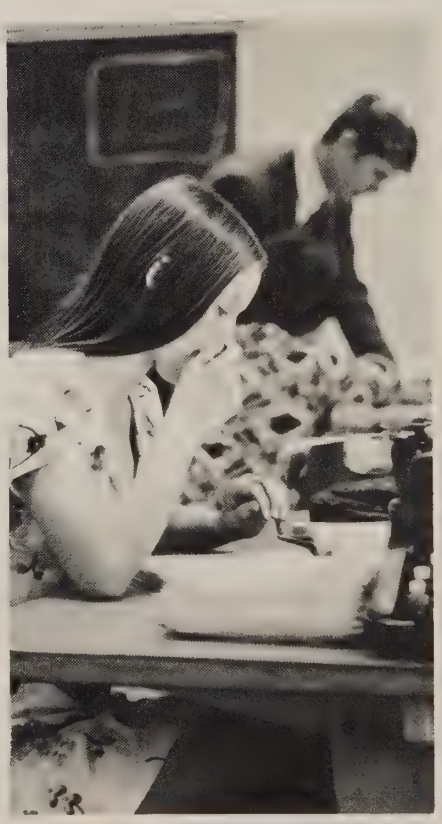
School life

"September 4, 1973, a Tuesday morning and the beginning of another school year. We walked through the doors of a new building with feelings of apprehension, uncertainty and excitement. We expected the unexpected and waited to see what this school would hold for us.

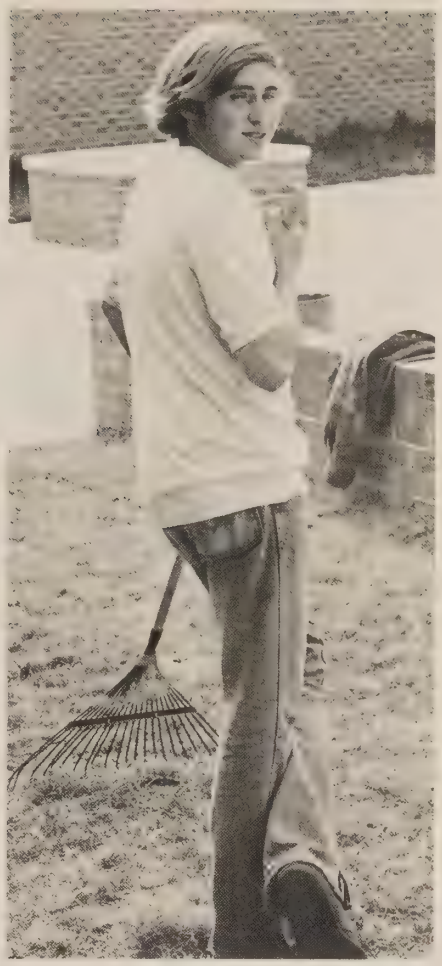
"As the days passed, we were absorbed into the routine of everyday school life. The Monday morning blues, pop quizzes, and those "Yellow Slips" once again became part of life. Interruptions in this routine were few, but always welcomed. Interests were sparked by performances of the Fine Arts Department. An element of surprise was added as the SGA came up with unexpected concerts. The energy crisis hit closer to home with a talk by Stan Paris and as we had to walk to school in the darkness. Cheering for our teams at games brought the students to life and the traditional events of Homecoming, Prom and Graduation were remembered with sentiment, memories to be put in scrap books. The year was made unique by the students. Each made his own contribution to the picture of this year, a unique year, as is every year of high school."



All in a Day of Life



The "Library Five" contemplate their next big hit. "And how long have you been having these dizzy spells?" inquires Mona Boulos. Lorri Ruple seems to have found all the questions, but not the answers.



From the first football game
to Homecoming,
From Twirp Week to the Prom,
All too soon we forget the everyday life of school.
From the first day of class
through final exams,
All the routine walks from class to class,
The short helloes and the
hurried goodbyes,
All the worry and work in
every endeavor.
The crushing disasters and
sudden recoveries,
This is the foundation upon which we build,
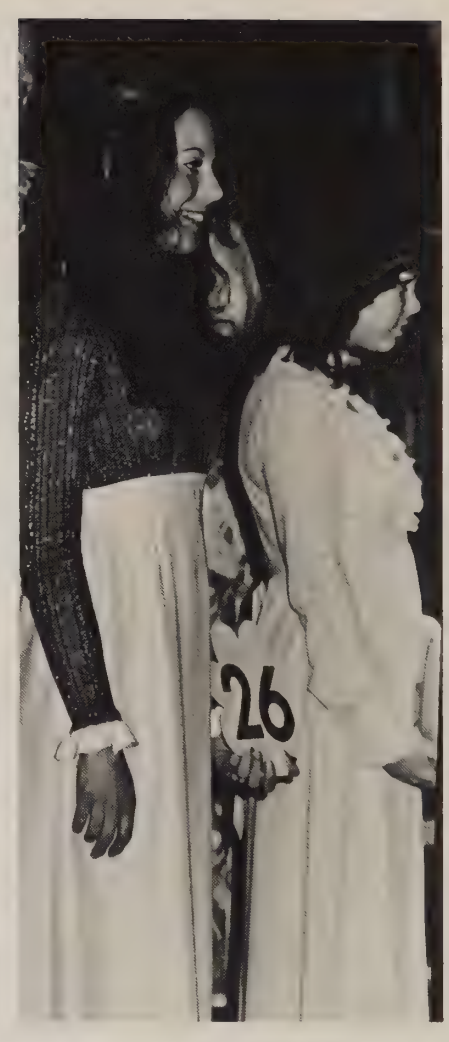
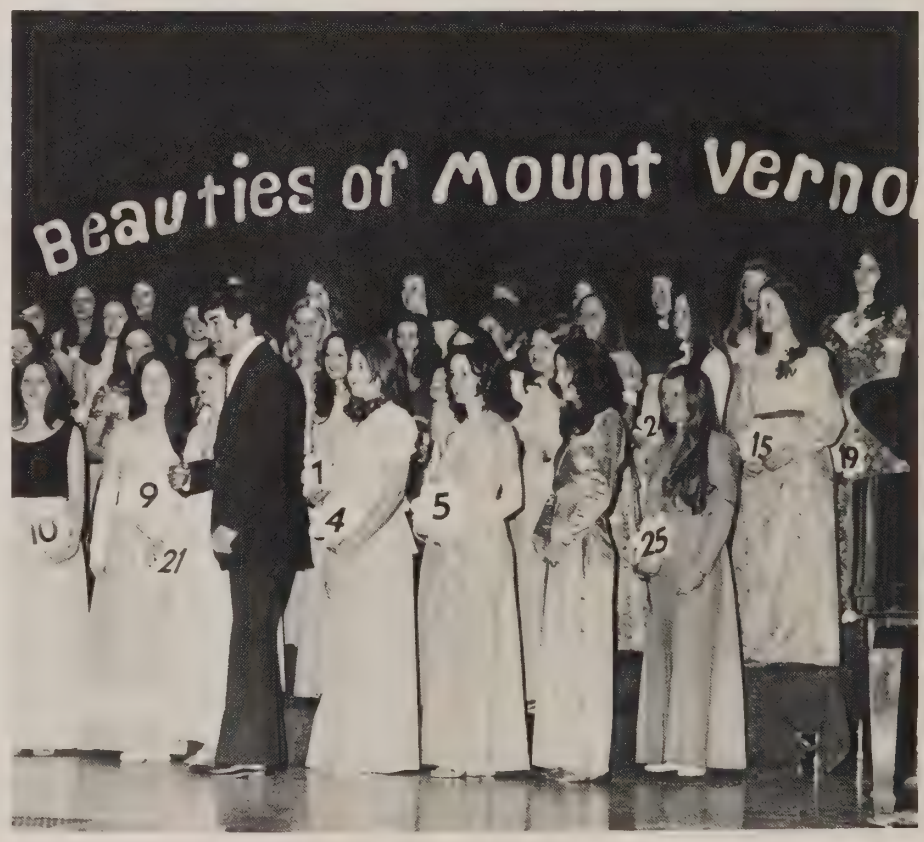
All in a day of life.

"I've had it," moans Barbara Kee, "25 words a minute and 16 mistakes!" Donating his time, Stewart Gregorie helps to keep the Smoking Area clean. Affection fills the halls of M.V. High.

A Beautiful Tradition



"Miss Mt. Vernon 1973 is Miss Laverne Jackson!" The tension broke and applause rose from the audience as she was crowned and presented with a bouquet of flowers. Her court gathered around, congratulating her, with only a twinge of their disappointment, yet, relieved that the event was over.



Laverne Jackson expresses her feelings when crowned Miss Mt. Vernon. Excitement is shown on the faces of Lisa Keller and Debby Esola. Beauty fills the stage as the girls line up.

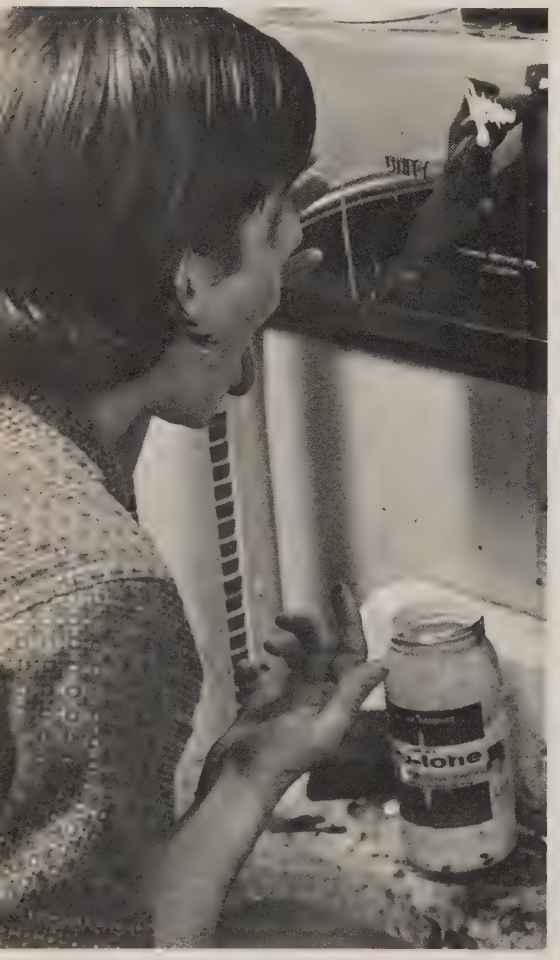
Looking Through the Eyes of Children

Fun and learning was the plan of the day when English students visited Gunston Elementary School as part of their Children's Literature course. Success was evident by the faces of the children when students told stories and acted out their original works of art.

A child's innocent question amuses Pam Avery. "Is that what happens when you become a teenager?"

Down on MacConachy Square

One of the major highlights of the past spring was the performance of "Brigadoon" presented by the Performing Arts Department. The largest production ever presented at Mount Vernon centered around two Americans and a mystical Scottish village. The play proved to be both humorous and dramatic; as the plot developed, one American fell in love with a Scottish lass while the other was pursued by a desperate, unmarried maiden. The hardwork and talent of the members of the cast, orchestra, and those back stage, were combined to make three very successful and enjoyable evenings.

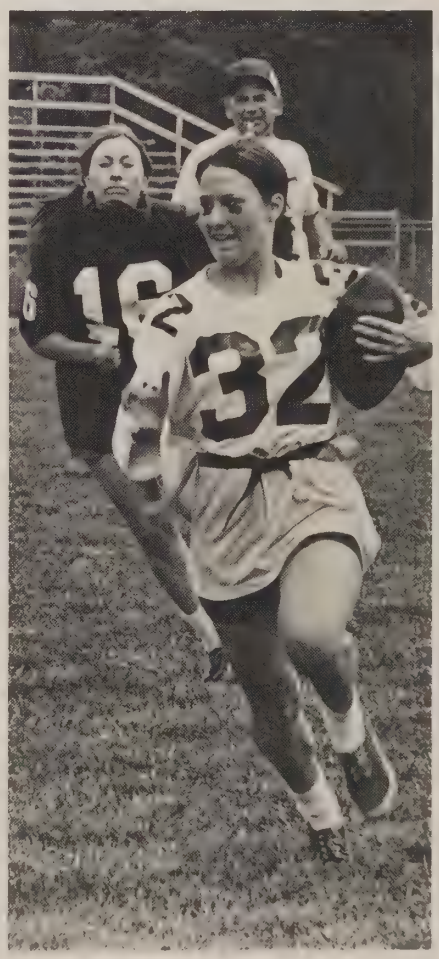


Lost in Scottish woodland, Tommy and Jeff come upon a quaint village. Sometimes, actors must make do with what they've got. "Ye see lad, 'tis not an ordinary Scottish village we've got here," explains Mr. Lundie. A bartender lends a sympathetic ear to a confused and troubled Jeff. A solemn death ritual. Fiona sings of her love for the American, Tommy.

Pigtails on the Gridiron

An air of secrecy surrounded the Powder Puff practices this year, as the girls made special efforts to hide team plays from "enemy spies". The practices were brutal, some ending with bloody noses and sore muscles, but this did not discourage the girls from having fun and enjoying themselves. Unfortunately, a rainy day postponed the game, but the Juniors' spirit was not dampened as they came up with a 7-0 victory over the Seniors.

In a secretive huddle, Doug Vigen plans strategy with "his girls". Move out of the way, here comes Gretchen Koenig. Ellen Cancilla shows senior determination despite the fact that they lost.



"Memories Pressed Between the Pages"

"Hey look at him!" "Is that really me?" "Who's that in this picture?" These were some of the remarks exclaimed throughout the cafeteria at the annual Yearbook Signing Party. Students laughed with their friends over this or that picture while others were busy signing their books. The Party ended with everyone satisfied that the past year would be well remembered.

"You've gotta be kidding," remarks Paul Wellen to Red Smith. Carol Froelich is intrigued by the Yearbook.

Moods, Music, and Merriment

Couples were scattered about the room. Some in quiet corners, others on the dance floor. Many groups of friends mingled in private conversations, while those looking for more fun created new dance steps and brought back old ones. This was the general mood set at the 1973 Junior-Senior Prom. Music provided the evening with enjoyment for the Juniors' first and the Seniors' last Prom.

Terri Coates is crowned Prom Queen by Gayle Shelton. Dale Gouldin and Jeff Orrik take a break from the night's activities. Marie Jacobson receives a bouquet from Mr. Landes as Bob Paxton her escort, smiles on. All smiles, the queen and her Senior Court pose for our photographer: Kem Bartlett, Barry Moffit, Queen Terri Coates, Jeff De Prez, David Sable and Barbie Sullivan. 1,2,3 kick?! That's right a guys kickline! A serene moment with Sharon Fick.

On June 10, the Seniors of Mount Vernon assembled at Washington National Cathedral with the feeling of awe. Those "high school" days were ending and the Seniors would soon be responsible for themselves Baccalaureate was to encourage and bless the students with a successful life. Graduation, four days away, was held in Constitution Hall with a Graduation-Farewell address given by Mr. Landes. An air of sadness swept the hall as the Seniors and the audience realized that they were no longer adolescents, but adults with memories.

A Little Bit Older, a Whole Lot Wiser

The procession to Washington Cathedral. Lisa Pershing knows that her high school years are done, as she enters the Cathedral. Anticipation is great among the seniors as they enter Constitution Hall. The many faces of graduation. "Just hold still and I'll fix it for you."

Once Upon a Time. . .

Participation in Homecoming Week this year was at its best. Last minute touches were added to storybook floats; each class trying to outdo the others. Dress-up-day found the halls filled with Raggedy Ann and Andy, football and baseball players, and even some astronauts and construction workers. Becky Hulshizer was crowned Homecoming Queen on Friday as the Majors beat Groveton 32-0. Honors in both wall decorations and float competition were taken by the Seniors, their theme being "Alice in Wonderland". Sophomores won first place in pep rally skits, demonstrating underclassmen talents. Concluding the busy week was Homecoming Dance. Held Saturday night in the school cafeteria, the dance hosted Cybil and Summerfield bands. All in all, Homecoming Week was a successful show of enthusiastic school spirit.

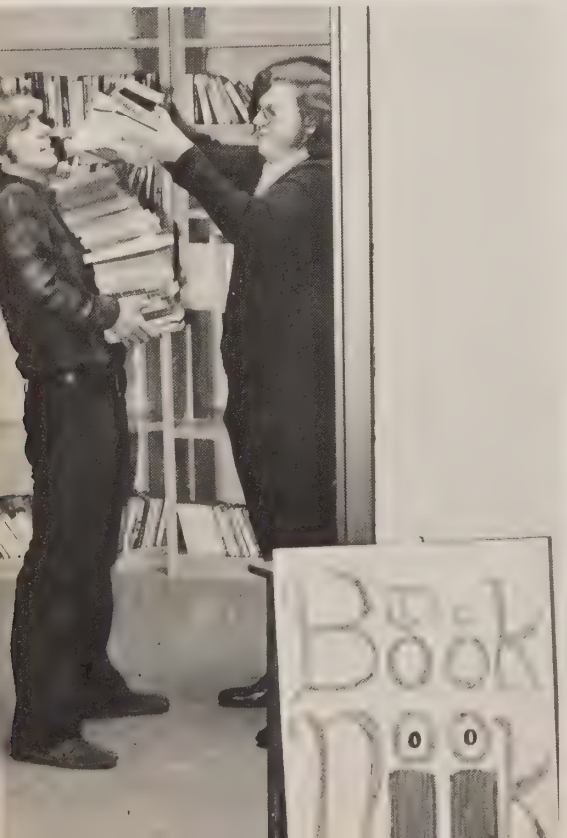
Insight into Serving Others

In the move from the old to the new, Radio Mt. Vernon was not left behind. It found a new place of operation in the main office and broadcasted music before school in the morning and during the lunch shifts. It was a popular part of the school day and helped to break the monotony of class lectures and discussions. Unfortunately, we missed the radio programs during second semester as they were discontinued because of technical difficulties.

A new addition to our school was the Paperback Book Nook, sponsored by the Senior Honor Society. Located in the media center, the store sold a variety of used books. It's purpose was to make available to all students, at a low cost, books that have already been enjoyed by others.



This year's "It's Academic Team" was called upon to show their knowledge early in September. With only a few days to prepare and the backup team ready, they went to the studios with confidence. Even when they lost the competition, their enthusiasm never waned and school support from the audience was tremendous.

The move to the new school building would not have been complete without re-establishing the school store; a traditional institution in which every student can rely on when he needs paper, pens or pencils. Housed in a much larger, more functional room this year, the store is run by first-year Distributive Education students.

The Golden voice of M.V. . . . Doug Kuett! "Oh, Jonathan . . . Jonathan, I think I've got enough!?" "Sounds like a good book," exclaims Cara Beasley, Marianne Foust and Missy Stallo, who are reading the back cover summary. It's Academic All Right! The Team—Jon Ward, Chuck Lee, John Sotos. Back Up Team—Paul Wellen, Kathleen Graham, Tim Blizzard, and sponsor, Mrs. Landgrabe. Miss Budziak manages to manage the school store while curing her sweet tooth.

Spotlight on Exhibition Basketball

The popularity of basketball continued to grow at Mt. Vernon this year. The courts were alive with a variety of exhibition games. On the first night, games between the Juniors and Seniors, and the Faculty and Booster Club were played. Many new rules were formed to add to the spirit of fun. The class competition was close, but the Seniors walked off with a one-point win. The faculty tied the Boosters that night, but they quickly rebounded in their next exhibition game. Challenged by the WEAM radio jocs, they came out winners at the end of an exciting game.

Our faculty fights to stay on top. In a basketball "huddle", Steve Darden confers with the Senior girls. "Is that what they call a basket?"

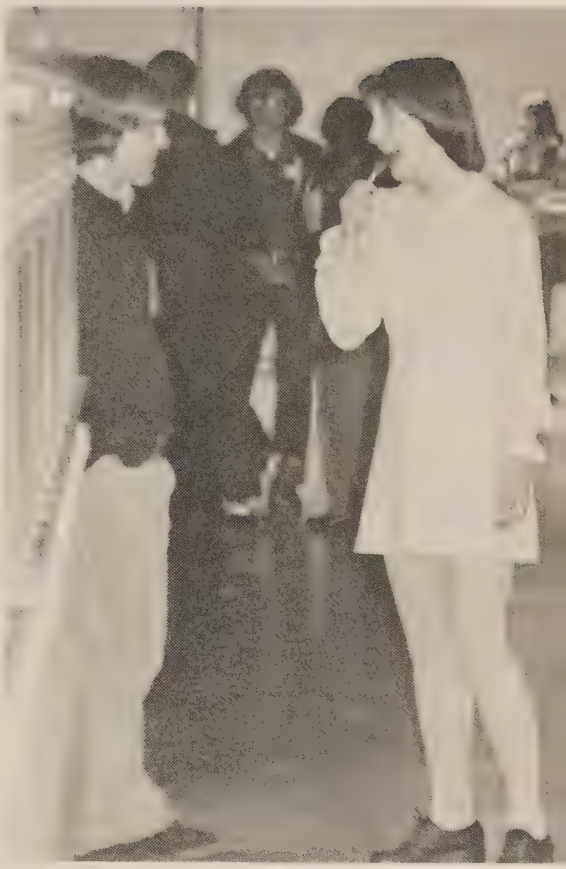
Cupid Strikes the Hearts of Many



February 14, St. Valentine's Day, has always been the traditional day for expressing friendship and love. This year was no exception when students bought lollipops from the Junior class for their sweethearts and friends. The Key Club's contribution to the day was a humorous take-off of television's "The Dating Game." Ft. Hunt High School was in on the fun as the girls and guys chose their dates. After an evening on the town, the couples all agreed that it had been a happy Valentine's Day.

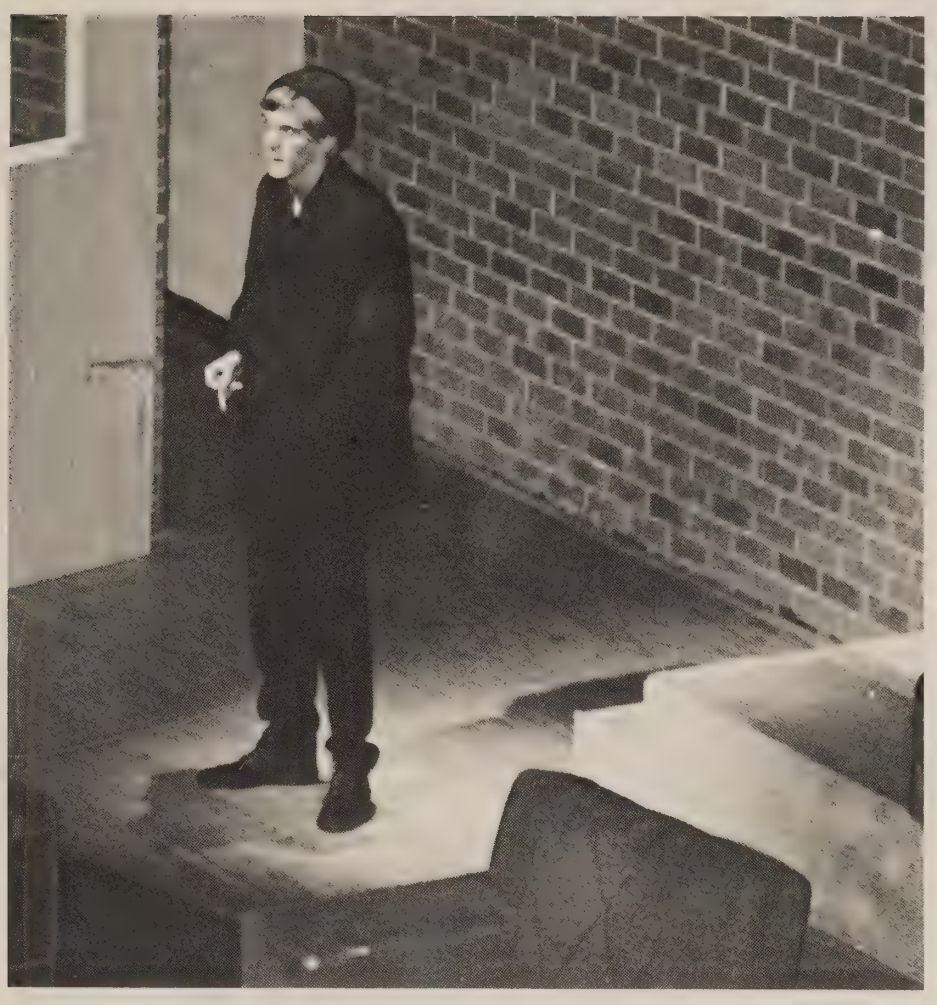
Mount Vernon's most eligible bachelors: Doug Cook, Clay Mulford, and Doug Vigen? "Yummy, yummy, yummy, I got love in my tummy. Leslie Hall and her Fort Hunt escort were one of the happy "Dating Game" couples!

The Versatility of Music

The Chorus and Band Departments of Mount Vernon are known for their versatility of music. A new band director and a whole-hearted effort of the players, combined to make a very successful year for our band. Their marching ability was not only shown at football half-time shows, but at several parades throughout the year. A fall concert put on by the Choral Department, including the Barbershop Quartet, was enjoyed by many. In retrospect Mount Vernon has a music department they can be proud of.

The band was in fine style at the Springfield parade. Singing to a responsive audience is the Barbershop Quartet.

"The Glass Menagerie"



As the narrator, Tom Wingfield (Lee Painter) tells the story of his sister's retreat into her world of "glass menagerie." Amanda Wingfield (Maureen Quinn) discusses family problems with her son, Tom.

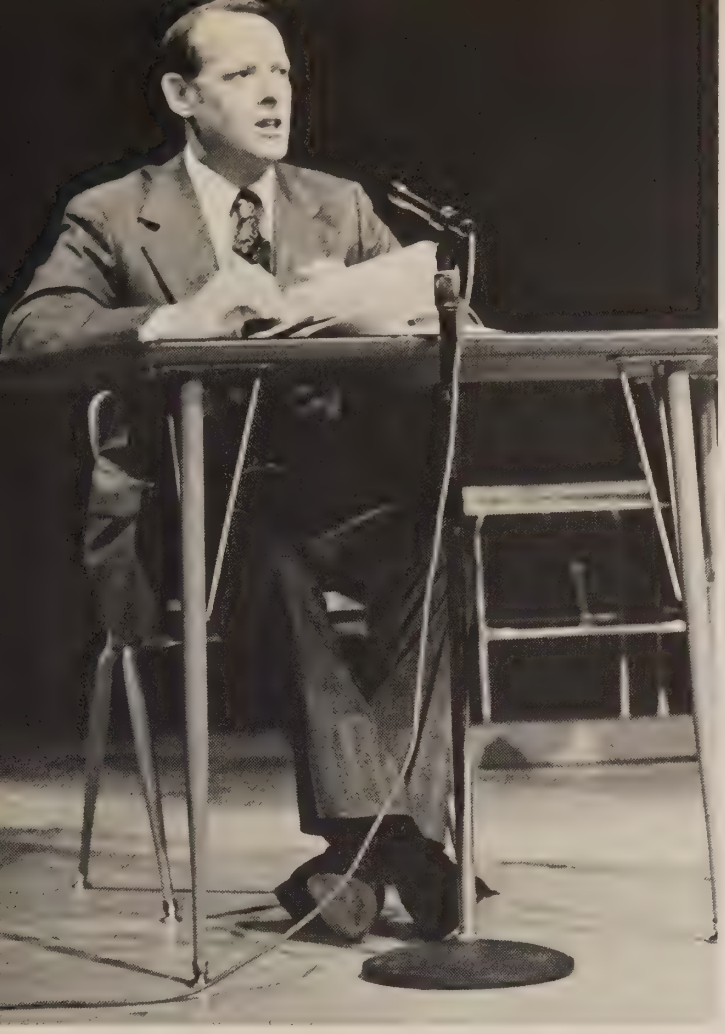
The versatility of the "Little Theater" was proven this fall when the Drama Department presented it's first play of the year, Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie." Set in St. Louis, it centered around the Wingfield family and a gentleman caller. The play was separated into two parts; one was the preparation for the gentleman caller, and the second part was "The Gentleman Calls." Use of the round theater was not the only "first" in this presentation. A tremendous acting job was done by first-time actress and actor Marianne Bess and Lee Painter, as Laura and Tom Wingfield. Novice director, Wayne Oshima, also showed his talent as an assistant director. The one disconcerting factor of this performance was the lack of heat. It seems that there cannot be heat and the actors be heard at the same time. But the enthusiasm, talent, and hard work of the cast and backstage crews provided for the entertainment of all.

Dateline '74 . . .

November 29: A Student Exchange Day was set up in Fairfax County to promote communication and sportsmanship between Area I high schools.

November 29: As the energy crisis became more of a reality to all of us, the presentation by Virginia Congressman Stan Parris was appreciated. He presented many facts and figures on what can be expected in the near future.

December 12: Our school and community were given the privilege of a performance by the National Theater Company when they presented Shakespeares "As You Like It" in the Little Theater.



January 18: In an attempt to answer the issue of marijuana laws today, a video-taped debate between Bob Horan, a Commonwealth attorney, and Barry Wolf from the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws was held. Although it showed no definite answers, the debate did raise questions and sparked new ideas in student's minds.

February 1: The student body was honored with an informative presentation by former Prisoner of War Colonel Jim Bean of the Air Force. His talk enlightened the students to the living conditions and sacrifices of our men held in the "Hanoi Hilton" during the Vietnam War.

Music Brings New Life to Mt. Vernon

Music is all around us. It is part of everyone's life. Almost everywhere we go, a radio is heard or a stereo is sounding forth; therefore it is not unusual for music to be part of our school with the many concerts and music-oriented student involvement. The first concert this year, which was sponsored by the S.G.A., "The First Gear" band, played to enthuse the students to attend their concert that night. Some of our own student's musical talents were encouraged when Mike Yuhas and the "Celestial Realm Consortium" was presented. A variety of music types such as: rock, a combination of jazz and rock, and folk music was enjoyed. Kathy Toomey's contribution to music at Mt. Vernon was a day of folk songs for the freshman classes. By request, she performed several songs for many attentive audiences.

Only a few of Mike Yuhas' many talents. "The answer my friend is blowing in the wind . . ." "Take it away Fred!"

"Rock Around the Clock Tonight . . ."

". . . I'm gonna rock, rock, rock, till broad daylight." The Greaser Dance was on its way to provide rock and roll for all who came. Sponsored by the SGA, the dance was one of the many activities that helped to break up the winter quarter. Reliving the era of the fifties, guys slicked back their hair and rolled up their jeans, while girls sported bobby socks and calf-length skirts. Although everyone tried, only a few couples succeeded in reproducing such dances as the Boogie Woogie and the Mash Potato with the help of music provided by Cybil. Set in a mood of good times and fun, the dance was a delightful change from the dances of today.

And the band played on . . . This couple is rocking out to the sounds of the fifties. Cuddle-dish, Jim Still, swings into action.

Potpouri of Happenings

Mount Vernon hosted the annual District DECA contest on February 13. Lee Webster earned second place for public speaking. Dean Cyr won second place for his eye for good sales techniques. In Parliamentary Procedure, Faisia Bayne placed third. Rhett Bosze took third in the job interview category. Also placing, but not pictured, was David Pogey.

Sometimes studies and homework have a way of getting ahead of us. Tracy Crisp, in a spare moment, takes advantage of the informal atmosphere to catch up on her English homework.

The first real snow in many years produced a childish excitement when school was let out early. Even Mr. Propps couldn't help throwing a few snowballs.

Self-expression is an important part of maturity. In a school as large as ours, assertion of individuality comes forth in our creative works of art.

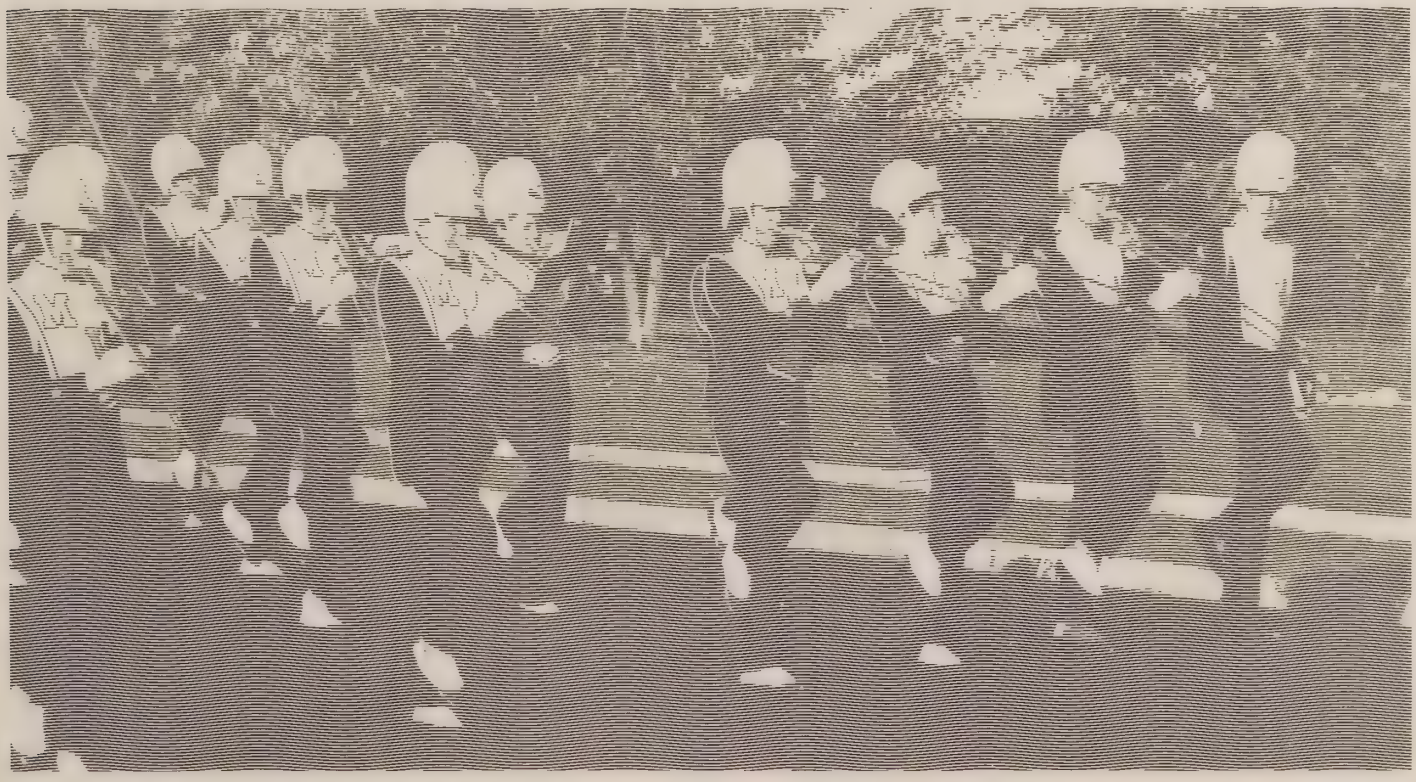
Lectures and books are not the only ways of learning. Various classes such as shop and wordworking provide an atmosphere for friends to work and learn together.

Clubs

"We entered a new and alien building this year. In an effort to belong to the school, we sought to join those groups and organizations with which we felt most comfortable. Our interests varied, but there were clubs for everyone with a wide range of activities planned."

"As with most things this year, change was evident even in the clubs. Trying to better coordinate the activities of clubs, the Activities Development Council was formed and many new clubs were also introduced, offering a greater range of interests."

"Within these clubs, we gained new friends and additional insight into ourselves. We shared experiences that were unique and as we grouped together, we became a bit more familiar and more at ease in the school. We felt that we "belonged," that we were part of this school."



Communication is the Goal

This year the Student Government Association faced the unique difficulties of a new school with a new administration. They attempted to overcome the difficulties by strengthening the internal structure of the student government.

The Senate was formed and met each Tuesday during lunch to discuss bills and appropriations concerning the school. This year's officers initiated many new projects including the Student Exchange Day, Congressman Paris Assembly and the financing of a printing press and composer.

Be-bopping along, the SGA kicked off their shoes, rolled down their bobby socks and arranged for a 1950 Greaser Dance. All in all, this year's Student Government Association played a major role in school life and proved that a student government can be a very effective organization.

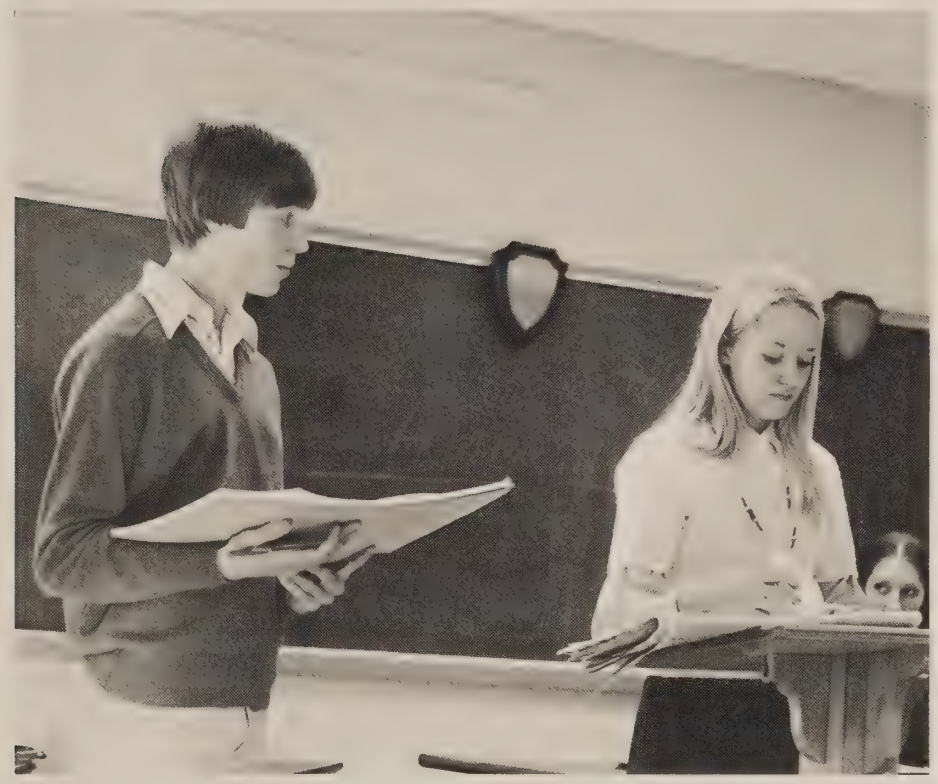
Debate Dedication Devotion.

Mount Vernon is nationally known for its Debate Team. They have traveled extensively on the Eastern Coast, entering tournaments from New York to North Carolina. They have received invitations from other tournaments farther away, but due to the lack of transportation were unable to accept.

This year the Debate Team reached the quarter-finals in the West Springfield Tournament, and excelled in the Catonsville Tournament. Debate is a year-round sport and requires great devotion, dedication, and time, yet it offers fun and above all else, a sense of accomplishment.



Rick Preston and Aldine Hammaker find that debate takes hours of hard work. "Practice makes perfect" is the motto of Deanna Deane and Robert Bagwill.

The Senior Honor Society was not an "honorary" club this year. The members were committed to involvement in many aspects of school life. They played the traditional role of tutoring other MV students but decided to take on additional projects. The newest project was the establishment of the "Book Nook" in the Media Center. It was run by the club members and carried a supply of paperback books for personal interest and those required by English and Government courses. The profits of the "Book Nook" were to go to the Library for the funding of new books. With all their activities, the SHS members left their mark of hard work and achievement on this first year at the new Mount Vernon.

Hard Work and Achievement

Induction into the Junior Honor Society is based on several qualities. A JHS candidate must be considered outstanding in the area of scholarship, leadership, service, character and citizenship.

The society always tries to participate in activities that not only serve others, but bring new experiences to the JHS members. This year the Society participated in a tutoring program for students at Riverside School and at Mount Vernon. But the club was not all work, as the members got together for some social events in order to bring them closer together.

Spanish Culture Brought to MV

Enthusiastic! That's the word to describe the Spanish Club. The large enrollment was deeply interested in all facets of Spanish life. In pursuit of this, the members often had presentations with people that had lived in, or visited Spanish speaking countries. Lectures were given on life in Argentina and the bulls in Pampalona, Spain.

Other activities were also planned, including the annual International Dinner. As a high school organization, the Spanish Club provided a pathway for students to a deeper understanding of our Spanish speaking neighbors.

Culture, Cuisine: A Taste of France

Keeping busy with many different activities, the French Club was able to make the French culture a reality. Bringing to its members a taste of France, the club visited different French delicatessens and tried the various cuisines. On a more intellectual level, the French Club traveled to some book stores in the area to read books by French authors.

The members had various fund raising projects and made plans for future activities. The French Club enabled its members to bring a bit of France into each of their lives.

The French Honor Society is a traditional club in which the members are chosen on their academic record. The activities of the society include the tutoring of other French students, attending foreign film festivals and having an annual induction banquet. New members are formally greeted at the induction ceremony with a banquet of French cuisine prepared by other members. All of these activities are geared toward furthering the interest of French culture as the members promise to do in the induction pledge.

"Je promets sur mon honneur, d'etre fidele a la Societe Honoraire de Francais, de seutenir ses hauts principes, et de faire tout mon possible pour maintenir l'interet dans la France et sa culture."

Language: the Key to Communication

Although scholars of a "dead" language, the Latin Club members do not deal strictly with the past. The members busied themselves by publishing a newspaper with articles, jokes, and crossword puzzles in Latin. After school, many of the members were seen tutoring their "victims" or working towards the state competition in Latin. Yet, these "Latin lovers" enhanced their studies with slave sales. Under the watchful eye of Anicula (little old lady) Mrs. Geahart, the members were able to bring Latin alive.

and the Basis for Understanding

Even though the German Club was one of the smallest clubs, it was not the least important. German Club provided many students with after-school treats by selling candied apples and cupcakes in an effort to raise money. As far as group activities were concerned, the club planned an excursion to the Pennsylvania Dutch Country and at Christmas time made a Kris Kringle costume for the holiday festivities.

Service is the Key Word

With an expanded membership, the Key Club continued to be an organization dedicated to serving the community and the school. This year's theme was "Commit Yourself" and with this in mind the club set out to achieve this goal. In early fall, the club began selling Major Outlooks, parking cars, ushering at various activities and cleaning the stadium. As the year progressed, the Key Club sponsored the Epilepsy Walk-A-Thon, a dating game during Twirp Week, and a light bulb sale to earn money. They also planned to stamp identification numbers of bikes, sell donuts, and work for the local recreation centers. The Key Club demonstrated what a service organization can do when they dedicate one-hundred per cent of themselves to their work.

This year the Keyettes of Mount Vernon High strove to aid the community with service and enthusiasm. They sponsored a Pancake Breakfast for all faculty members, and an annual Christmas Bazaar which took many months of preparation. It was not all district meetings and carwashes for the Keyettes of MV High. Being a Keyette also meant participating in various activities such as picnics and a game of "Hide-and-Seek" at Springfield Mall with the Key Club. The Keyettes proved to everyone that service and fun can go hand-in-hand.

"All the World's a Stage"

To promote the dramatic arts is the major purpose of the International Thespian Society. It is an honor society to recognize outstanding students of drama; their hard work is a major qualification for membership. Prospective members must earn ten points which is equivalent to one hundred hours of acting and working on stage productions. This year's members were busy with such activities as performing skits for the magazine campaign, sponsoring the "Celestial Realm Consortium" concert and preparing for a major play production that they perform annually.

A Variety of Voices Mingle into Harmony

The Choral Department with its variety of voices and talents presented several productions for the community of Mount Vernon. Along with their annual Fall and Spring concerts, the Frolics was again presented this year, and enjoyed by the audience and performers alike. Their Christmas Concert was canceled because of snow which left many carolers out in the cold. Under the direction of Miss Hopkins and the planning of the Choral Council, the Choral Department will continue to add merriment and song to Mount Vernon.

Clubs for Those with a Plan for the Future

The Future Teachers and the Future Homemakers of America continue to be clubs for those with a plan for the future. Here students are afforded the opportunity to prepare themselves for their occupations.

Both clubs have been working with retarded and under-priviledged children. In the spring these clubs plan to visit nearby colleges. FTA and FHA pave the way for life after graduation.

Positive Growth and Personal Development

For those students involved in the trade and industrial programs of the school, there are the Vocational Industrial Clubs. For those who have found their interest in retail merchandising, there is the Distributive Educational Clubs. These clubs offer both social and educational activities. One such activity is an annual contest with other clubs on the regional, state and national levels.

A Clash of Drums, a Flash of Light . . .

Involved? You bet! Under the direction of James Dash, the MVHS Band seems much more involved with activities than ever before. The Band is divided into three groups: The Marching Band, Symphonic Band, and Concert Band. Along with these groups, a new section has been added—a Stage Band. The Stage Band was formed to play at concerts, dances, and dinners. The bands, either separately or together, have performed at the Columbus Day Parade, the Christmas Program, the Pop Concert, the Spring Tour, the Exchange Festival, and the Spring Concert. The Marching Band had the honors of marching in the President's All-American Festival of Champions Parade.

Along with performing, the band has had a "Tag Day," Calendar sales, car washes, bake sales, and has sponsored a basketball game between the WEAM disc jockeys and the faculty. In retrospect, the band has had a very busy and productive year.

Color Guard

During pregame and halftime at football games and at various parades, the Color Guard represents the patriotic spirit of Mount Vernon. Leading the opening ceremonies, the girls march onto the field carrying the colors of the United States, Virginia, and Mount Vernon. This year the girls tried many new routines with flags of maroon and white. The Color Guard was surely an enjoyable added attraction to football games and parades.

With flags flying, our Color Guard represents MV at the inter-school competitions.

"Spirit, Spirit, Let's Hear It!"

As much fun as cheerleading appears to be, the hours of hard work and preparation far out number those spent cheering at games and pep rallies. From summer to spring, the girls can be seen practicing. Each hand-movement must be perfected. Each cheer, memorized. Painting banners for the cafeteria and decorating the team's locker room are just a few of their many activities designed to inspire the school and its teams.

From watermelon feasts to orange snacks, the cheerleaders do one thousand and one things to boost the team's morale. In essence, the cheerleaders, Freshmen, Junior Varsity and Varsity are the embodiment of the spirit at Mount Vernon.

Change Challenges Tradition

High-stepping feet, locker pals, bake sales, car washes, practices, and fun, illustrate the involvement of a Drill-Teamer. But in addition, the Drill Team supports the Majors and promotes school spirit.

During the summer, the Drill Team earned money to buy new uniforms and in the Fall attended the Fairfax County High School Drill Team and Band competition, held at Lee High School, and received a trophy of participation.

No Fuel, No Snow, No Go . . .

Snow, slopes, and skis; every ski clubber dreams of these and the day they will meet. One of the largest organizations in the school, the ski club melted away as the reality of the fuel crisis was challenged. Although the ski club was forced to dissolve, the officers posted ski resort notices for the benefit of the former members.

Early in January, the school board revoked their previous ruling, and the Ski Club was found skiing down the slopes once again.

New Clubs Give Added Diversity

The Bible Club was not as visible as other clubs within the school, yet the signs were often felt. The outward debates, quotes from the psalms, and spiritual singing at lunch added to the uniqueness of the club. Most importantly though, the Bible Club strove to bring God to a more personal level.

Have you ever tried to make something out of nothing? This challenge was shared by the members of the Art Club. Together they experienced the joy of creating with their own talents and abilities. Several of their projects were put in the show cases to brighten the school and display the members' creativity. The Art Club worked on the premise that a thing of beauty is a joy forever.

The girls that made up the Pep Club were avid supporters of the Mighty Majors. New this year, the club worked hard to increase the spirit within the school. At the games they cheered loudly and boosted the spirit of the crowd with their bright banners. Spirit is the backbone of any team and the Pep Club supplied a great deal of the enthusiasm that was needed.

Changes Result in a Productive Year

"Extra! Extra! Read all about it! Because of a newly acquired printing press, the Em Vee Hi will soon be printed at Mount Vernon. This new equipment will allow for a larger and more up-to-date paper with free copies available to all students."

Due to this year's staff, which added an extra "punch" to the paper, more interest and comments were expressed by members of the student body. Topics were of a more controversial nature and opinions were openly expressed by writers. The Em Vee Hi staff succeeded in reporting the news and sparking student involvement.

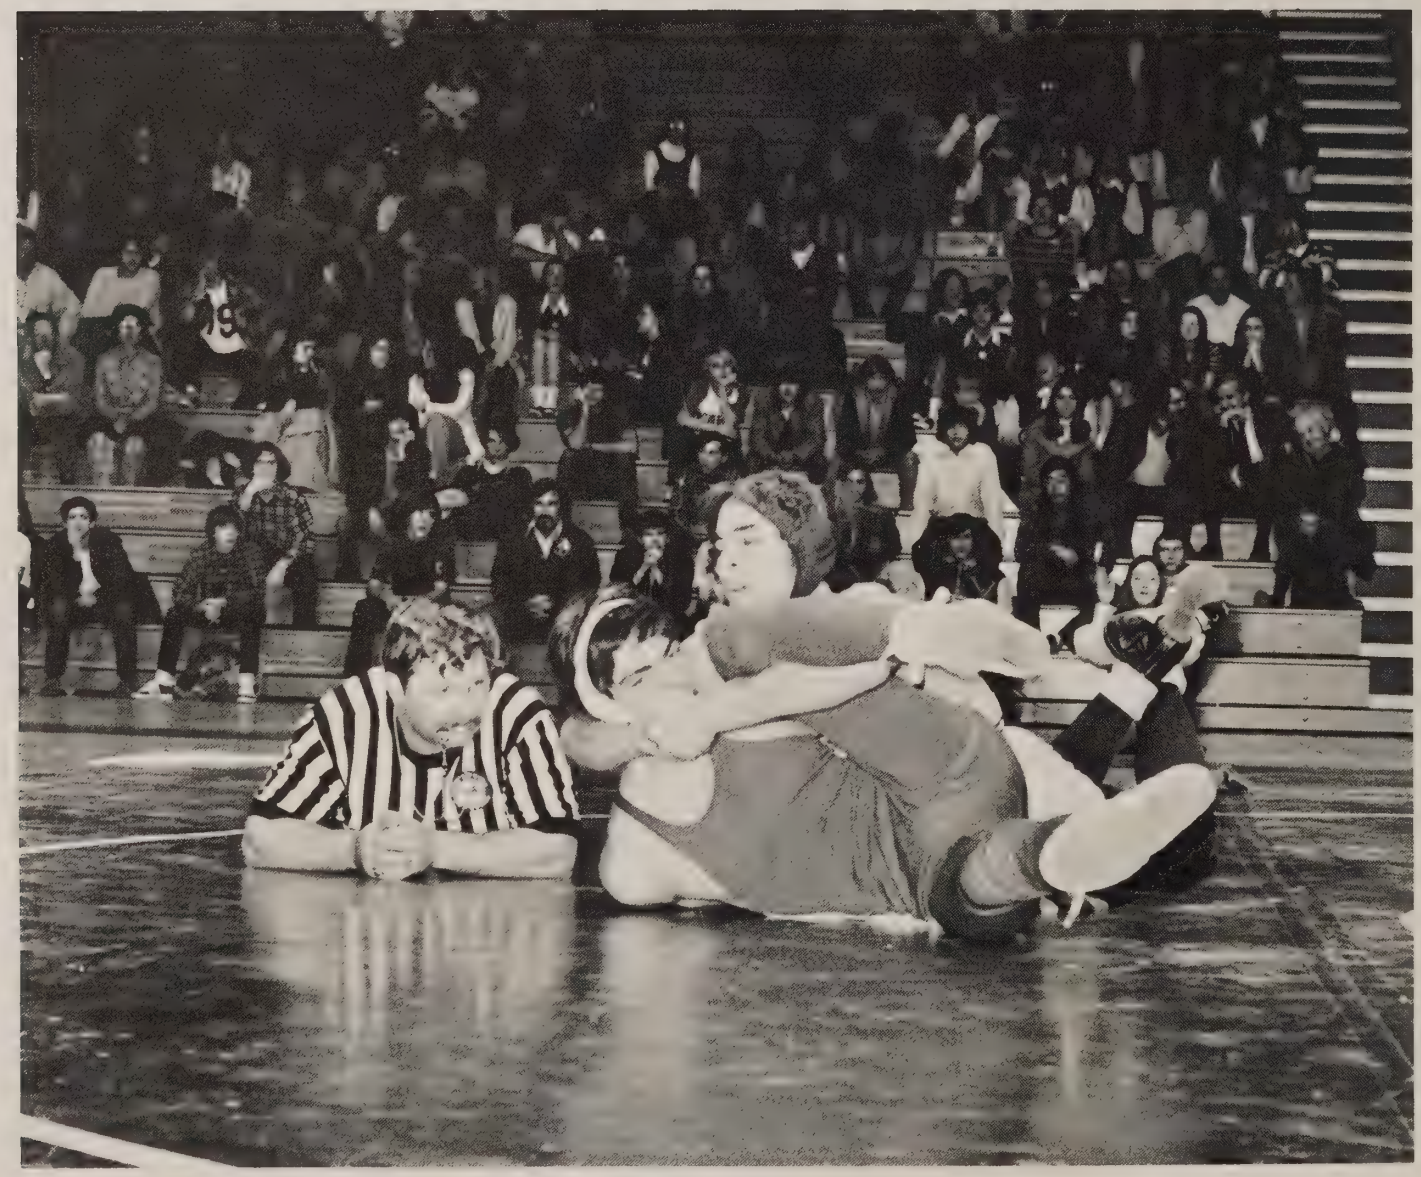
Creates a Storehouse of Memories

Sports



To be a true sportsman, one must have a certain kind of dedication. The kind of dedication that entails awakening in the early hours of the morning to begin a brutal practice, knocking one's self out everyday for weeks and then to be put on the "taxi squad," and getting all "psyched up" for a game, only to be handed a disheartening defeat. Few athletes are able to mold their lives around such a commitment. But or those who are able, this is their creed.

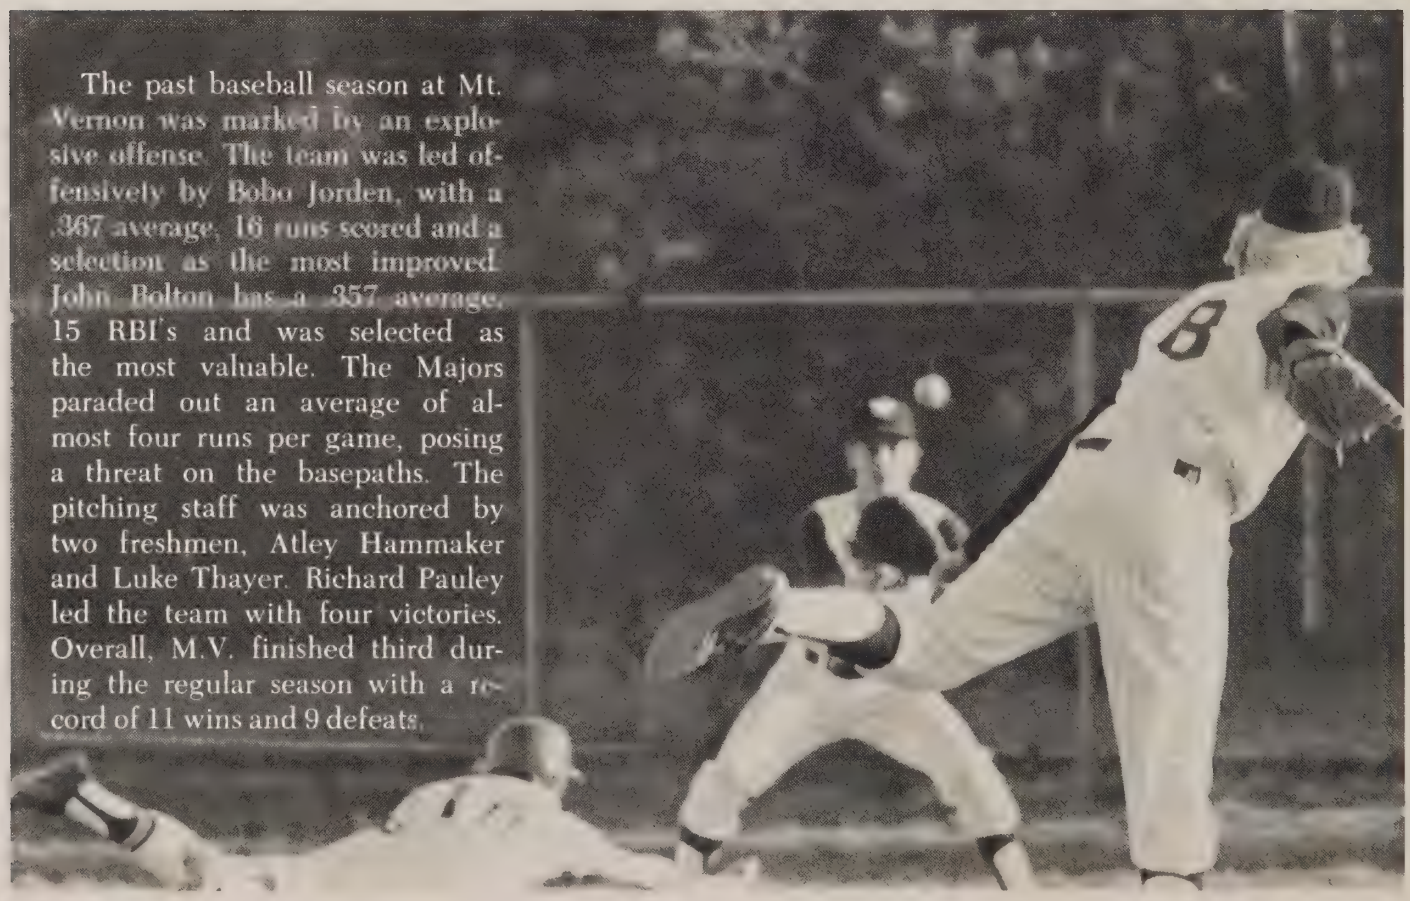
"Each week there is a new encounter . . . each year a new challenge . . . the color and display linger only in memory. But the spirit . . . the will to win . . . and the will to excel—these are the things that endure! These are the qualities which are so much more important than any of the events which occasion them!

"To the winner there is 100% laughter, 100% fun . . . and to the loser the only thing left is 100% resolution and 100% determination!

"The quality of any man's life has got to be a full measure of that man's personal commitment to excellence . . . and to victory, regardless what field he may be in!"

Strong Offense Results in Successful Year

Varsity Baseball—FIRST ROW: B. Clubb, J. Bailey, B. Midkiff, M. Suma, R. Pauley, J. Hill, B. Coorsh. SECOND ROW: Coach Yednock L. Thayer, D. Cook, B. Jordan, K. McNaughton, D. Donahoo, S. Darden, B. Childers, J. Bolton.



The past baseball season at Mt. Vernon was marked by an explosive offense. The team was led offensively by Bobo Jorden, with a .367 average, 16 runs scored and a selection as the most improved. John Bolton has a .357 average, 15 RBI's and was selected as the most valuable. The Majors paraded out an average of almost four runs per game, posing a threat on the basepaths. The pitching staff was anchored by two freshmen, Atley Hammaker and Luke Thayer. Richard Pauley led the team with four victories. Overall, M.V. finished third during the regular season with a record of 11 wins and 9 defeats.

Diamond Girls

During pre-season practice, the expectations of having a winning year were good. Many two-year veterans returned to the diamond. However, other factors intervened. The constant rains during the spring allowed only four of the ten games to be played at the originally scheduled time. Though most of the wins were momentous, and the losses marginal, the team barely edged over a .500 season.

Form, skill, and flexibility are all necessary in executing the perfect handstand.

He was next to compete. Physically he was prepared for this opportunity, but mentally, he was not ready. He thought of what was before him, and recalled previous memories that had been tucked away in his mind. He thought of the practices after every school day and Saturday mornings. Practice usually lasted about two hours, and involved warming up before "breaking to your apparatus" so as not to get injured by having cold muscles. After his work-out was over and the equipment put away, he had strength exercises. He learned why they were called such. Every muscle was exercised. His whole body was sore and tired. During practices he strove for a routine with form and one which flowed together smoothly. The day before the meet, there were try-outs to see who would perform. Only four people per apparatus were chosen, and this time he had made it. Now he had his chance to show his efforts, to compete for placement. This is gymnastics at Mount Vernon High School.

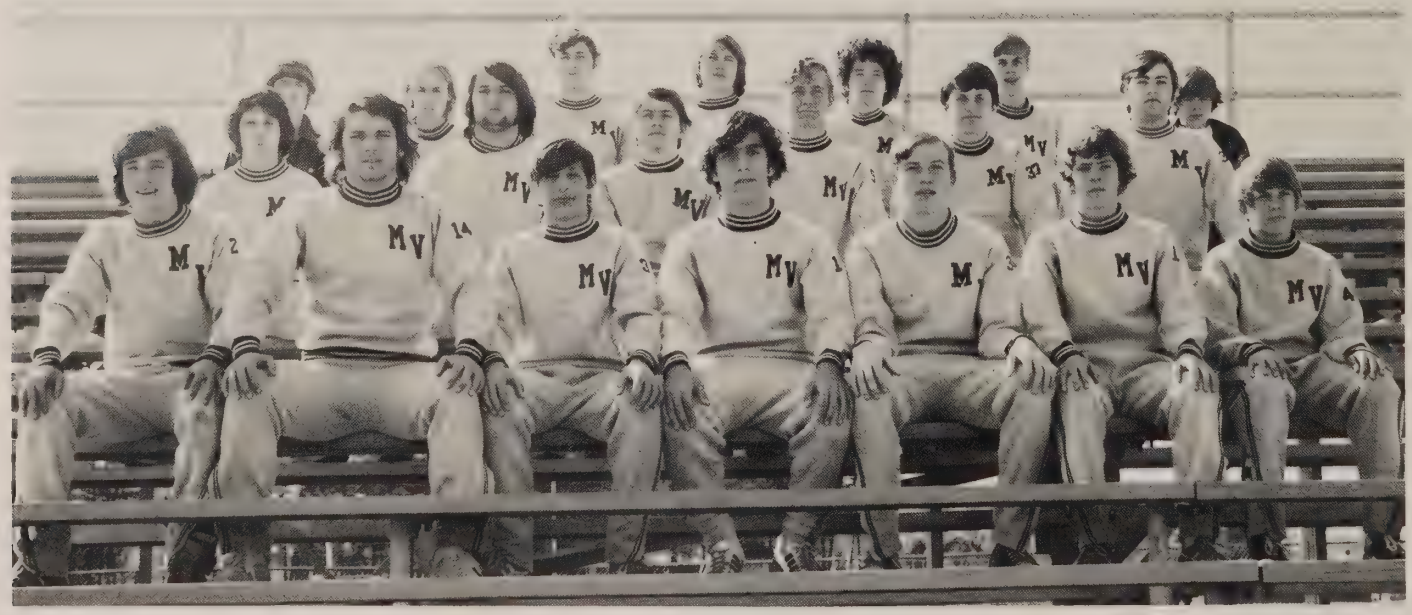
Track is a sport of the individual, constantly practicing with a personal dedication. Only in meets do these individuals join together as a team. In the opening meets the trackmen easily surpassed opponents. In mid-season, however, the cindermen fell to the superior performances of Edison and T.C. Williams, consecutively. The team pulled together in time to sweep past Groveton in their final meet.



The 1973 spring season found a new addition to the sports line up—Girl's Track. The squad was organized only two weeks before their first scheduled meet. The lack of being an established team did not deter the team's ability to match their rivals. The girls were victorious in all their duel meets. Five people qualified for Regional, and freshman Micky Harnden represented Mt. Vernon at State. Consisting of mostly underclassmen and the intense interest among them, Girl's Track has secured a place in the sports line up.

Golf is a sport of skill and patience. Long hours of practice on the range is required of each participant. A popular sport of this country, golf has also become a part of high school athletics. Mount Vernon has its own golf team, and although it is composed of only a few members, they are aiming for high hopes in the future.

His concentration and putting power make Majors proud of Jim Kunkle.

An Increasingly Popular Sport of the Spring

The 1973 soccer season was the first year that the team received recognition at Mount Vernon. With success in the games, soccer quickly became the best attended spring sport. As the season progressed, the experience the toemen gained from each preceding game was evident in their ability to defeat their opponents. Although the scores were low, intense action on the field gave the toemen a successful record of seven wins, one loss, and two ties.

Majors Bring Back a Winning Tradition

The 1973 football season was filled with ups and downs for Mount Vernon. The spirit was high despite the slow beginning of a tie with West Springfield. Taking advantage of McLean's mistakes, the Majors demonstrated their potential by trompling the Highlanders 31-0. In the Annadale game hopes were high. The Majors proved themselves a worthy competitor to Annandale until the last quarter, where an interception seemed to dishearten the team. With the offense shaping up into a real powerhouse, Mount Vernon won the following two games. The combination of Edison's fine defense and the Majors' overconfidence gave Mount Vernon their second loss of the year. After the heartbreak at Edison, the Majors pulled together, sweeping past the next three opponents. Included in the winning streak was the overpowering Homecoming victory of 32-0 against Groveton. The rather successful season ended on a disappointing note when Fort Hunt handed the Majors a defeat of 21-17. Although the year's 6-3-1 record is a vast improvement over last year, the Majors look to the 1974 season with hopes of a championship team.

In years past the Junior Varsity football team has been a rather weak part of Mount Vernon sports. But this year, for the first time in recent history, juniors were permitted to play on the J.V. team as their competitors have done for several years. Many of our players had one or two years experience. This fact gave our team the necessary depth, not only to equal their opponents' capabilities, but to come out victorious in all but one of the games.

The Skill of the Stick Girls

The season to have a championship hockey team was 1973. There were high expectations for the Mount Vernon stick girls. Ten girls returned from last year's Varsity team and four moved up from J.V. The girls had practice every afternoon. When weather did not permit outdoor practice, the team moved into the auxilary gym for drills. The girls had much faith in their ability to meet the opposition, and made no excuses for the games in which they were beaten or tied. The year ended with a satisfactory record of 4-2-2. The team had a good season, although they did not live up to their hopes and expectations.

Cross Country: Solitary and Self-Rewarding

"I know the finish line is around here somewhere!" exclaims Red Smith.

The Cross Country season comes at a time when everything is football. Pom-pom girls dress in their uniforms on the day of the football game, while forty-six guys parade around in maroon and white jerseys. Cross Country? It comes and goes, virtually unnoticed by the majority of the student body. The real impact is on the runners themselves. Cross Country is a lonely sport in other ways. It is each man running against a competitor and a clock. No one can help the runner; he depends only on himself. Running, one foot down, the other foot down a stride ahead, again and again, ever running for the finish line. Stride after stride the runner has but a single thought, over and over again—run. There is a runner in front. Just a glimpse, and he is gone around the bend. That glimpse serves as an incentive, a constant reminder to run faster. The opponent is out of sight, but never out of reach; he must be reached, and passed. The runner comes to the final stretch. He summons what little energy he has left. With a demand on every muscle, he quickens his pace for the last stretch. There are a few weak cheers from a minute audience, but cheers do not matter. He is running for himself now, ahead of the others, across the finish line. He has won by himself, for himself, because of himself.

Cross Country: FIRST ROW: J. Teague, K. Dilallo, B. Merritt. SECOND ROW: B. Tongue, B. Phillips, R. Phillips, R. Davey, B. Samples, R. Smith, J. Dyer.

New Team Takes Stepping Stone of Experience for Success in Future Seasons

As the seasons go by, the Athletic Department is ever expanding to accommodate both the male and female athletes. Mt. Vernon was one of the few high schools in the area without a girl's tennis team, until this fall. Girl's tennis had the earmarks of the beginning team it was, a poor season. Despite the failure in the matches, there was definite individual strength among the members of the team. Two of the girls came to the team as veterans of the previous year's spring tennis; Gretchen Van Dyk represented Mount Vernon at Regionals.

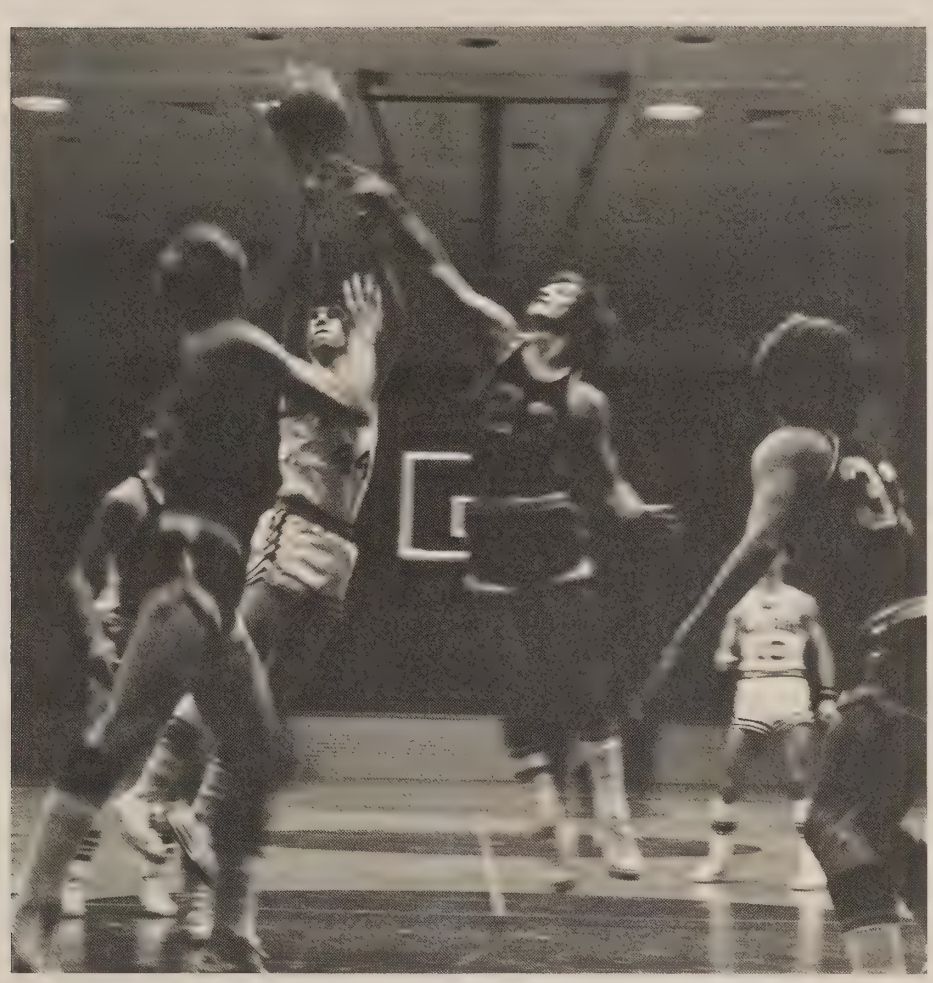
A Winning Attitude Comes to M.V. Cagers



For years, basketball had not been one of Mount Vernon's strong points. However, if one would take a long ranged look, a slow but steady improvement, over the years, is evident. For the first time in many seasons, the team has had a substantial number of returning varsity players. With the experience the J.V. league provided, still more advanced in rank to join the Varsity dribblers. The most important development of the year is the return of a winning attitude which has been absent in the M.V. Cagers for so long.

Marty Quinn weaves his way through concentrated competition. In the clear, Rob Demarr tries for two points. Co-captain Rick Curtis fakes out the Fort Hunt center.

Lack of Unity Stifles Success

The Girl's Basketball team had a very disappointing season. The team consisted of many returning players and many new members. The girls had a new coach, and new methods of playing. Looking at the season overall, it appears that the main problem for the team was their lack of unity. There was much individual talent, but conflict within the team kept them from the wins of which they were capable. Facing constant defeat, spirit died by mid-season.

The Junior Varsity team, with only one returning player, was very successful. Meeting a tough Lake Braddock team took away their chances for being first in the District; however, Jayvee's success puts optimism in the future of the Mount Vernon Girl's Basketball teams.

Mount Vernon Well Represented at State

Winter Track, being considered a minor sport, was among the first in the athletic program to feel the effects of the energy crisis. The season was cut down from the five originally scheduled meets, and all out-of-district meets were eliminated. Mount Vernon made its mark, winning two of the three meets. The team showed it true depth in the postseason contest with many individuals competing in the District and Regional Meets. Several runners and a shot putter advanced to State.

Swimmers Drown in Gunston District

At the beginning of the season, the Swim team consisted of approximately forty people. The lack of organization cut the number down as the season progressed. Many of those who attended the practices did not show up for the meets because of a lack of confidence in themselves. Others would show up only at the meets, feeling no need for practice. The actual team, those who put forth the most of their ability had strong determination. These people dedicated to swimming in competition, were too few to meet other teams consisting of a full squad of swimmers.

Mount Vernon is Wrestling Territory

After six years, Mount Vernon has regained the title of Gunston District Champions. Each season the team has grown in strength, and advanced closer, until this year the Majors clinched District. In duel meet competition, the grapplers lost to their rivals, the Lee Lancers. However, the Major powerhouses, Paul D'Amico, Joe Callahan, Johnny Barron and Jim Myers avenged Mt. Vernon overcoming Lee and every other participating school in the District Tournaments. The success of the team, and the support of the student body has, most assuredly, established Mount Vernon as Wrestling Territory.

The Girl's gymnastics team started the year off with great ambitions. With new equipment and a large team, the girls prepared themselves for their first home meet. Coached by Mr. Olan Faulk for the second year, the girls pulled through the meets with a record of 6-2. Lynn Orrik placed third on the beam in district and Michelle Manning tied for fifth on the uneven parallel bars. Although the girls did not score in Regional Tournament, their winning season proved to be a source of pride for Mt. Vernon.

The 1974 SURVEYOR Editors wish to express special appreciation to the following people for their aid in compiling this yearbook:

The American Yearbook Company and Mr. Larry Hess for their work and corresponding advice.

Mr. Neill Watson, our advisor, for his guidance, advice and willing assistance.

MacIntyre Studios for their color photography, Senior Class and Faculty portraits.

Howard and Ruth Marler for giving of their valuable time, patience and hard work to help us meet our deadlines.

Delmar Studios for the underclass portraits and their assistance with our exceptional problems.

Mrs. Oshima for her generous assistance from the ADP room.

Carl Anderson for his welcomed advice concerning layouts and photography.

Jayme Nielson and Bob Marks, who although were not staff members, gave of their time, talents and assistance.

The faculty for their understanding of missed classes and interruptions by staff members.

The staff members for putting forth a great amoung of effort in dealing with some exceptional problems.

The parents of staff members for tolerating the confusion, temperments, and late hours caused by yearbook work.

Most of all, we would like to thank Mr. Herman Thomason, our faculty sponsor, who showed incredible patience, understanding and gave valuable assistance to the staff members.

The COVER DESIGN is representative of the theme "Changing Patterns." The orange stream, running the length of the cover, is symbolic of the path of life, winding and diverse. Representing a new beginning for Mt. Vernon, the shapes on the lower right compose an abstract picture of a sunrise. The rays are of varied sizes and colors, but the sun remains a familiar circle, the rising sun being a constant factor of our lives. All the figures on the cover, none of which are exactly alike, symbolize the continuous changes that each of us faces during a lifetime.

Reflections of a Year Gone By

Without a watch,
Without the sun,
Without the clocks,
We were lost,
in the inequity of time.

Stan Kernan, '74

Ah, it was a new year, and what a day to return to school. Beautiful, clear, blue skies, a nice, warm summer sun; it all made Marty sorry that vacation had come to an end. There went the long sleeping hours, swimming and the weekend trips to the beach. He really liked the beaches, despite the crowds. "I wonder if the new school will be crowded?" he thought. "The old school certainly was." Marty reminisced about the old plant. He had spent three years there. He had particularly enjoyed the high ceilings, and despite its unpleasantness at the time, the Quonset huts. The old plant was truly unique.

Marty's school bus pulled into the new school. Three straight flagpoles stood in front, and even though Fort Hunt had left their mark, they were a pleasant sight to see. The inside of the new school was completely different from what he had expected. The hall was wide enough for a car, and air conditioning too, it undeniably was more comfortable than the old plant.

The new plant was a maze. Marty thought he would never find his classes; everything was so confusing. He kept going around in circles without even knowing it. There were new names for everything. The library was a Media Center, classrooms were learning centers and room numbers had letters. Things sure were different. The classrooms had carpeting and had tables instead of the customary desks.

Something seemed to be missing. Marty felt isolated. He had no way of telling what was happening outside. It was so quiet. Gone was Route 1 and all its hustle and bustle. He wasn't even sure if the sun was shining; there were no windows to look out of. "The price of progress," he thought. "I suppose now is not the time to be engulfed by tradition. Change is inevitable."

Bill Coorsh, '74

children are the best flowers of all nurtured by the showers of love
they sprout
and grow
and the months pass by until, warmed by an affectionate sun, the bud blooms and none of them are ever the same they vary in color, size, and shape each one so beautiful . . .
but then there's the child that doesn't have a chance like the flower which tries to grow from under a cement walk or one which unfurls itself in a darkened alley hate breeds faster than these flowers can grow and takes its shape in abandonment, abuse and neglect and the fragile flowers live like the may fly showing their beauty and form for a moment
only to die . . .

—Artwork by Mary Wooton, '74

The years drift by us day by day.
Each like the one before, yet different, in its way.
As the years go drifting by
And days change
And lives change
We see ourselves reflected in the past, its rights and wrongs.
This past year has been like this, different, yet the same.
And all the things that happened in it, reflect the good and bad.
Another year will come—Much like the last—And still much different.
One thing I know that will have changed, some bad will have turned to good.
And so life continues on and on—reflections growing dimmer.
Yet in our minds a thought will linger—of a year that was spent in testing and learning—
A year that was spent in growing.

Marianne Adinaro, '76

the price you pay for your friends
your thrills
your happiness
your status
your love
is much too high
do they allow credit
for such things?

Judy Ellsworth, '74

I don't know.

I'm sittin' in the classroom
thinkin' what I'm goin' to do,
Everybody's doin' somethin' but not what we're suppose to do.
I don't know what is happenin'
I don't know anymore,
I can't see what this world
has to offer anymore.

All the girls are gossipin'
And the boys are sleepin'
And there is one who is stoned
And that one jumps in anticipation, not knowing his location, Running for whatever comes his way.

I'll probably end up runnin'
Runnin' against the wind,
Runnin' away from whatever
I don't know,
I don't know.

How I Survived the End of the Semester

It was the week before the end of the semester. I had a thousand and one things to accomplish before Friday, January 25; a term paper here, a report there, and in between, a test or two . . . or three.

I began working on my term paper. My desk looked like the MV High School lunchroom at 12:30. Books were opened at strategic areas around my desk and on the floor. Papers were thrown (I had supposedly placed them there) in every other available space.

As I painstakingly scribbled the rough draft, sweat poured from my brow, (my faithful cat was there to wipe away the drops of hard work.) Five hours, twenty-three minutes and fifty point three seconds later, I triumphantly finished my rough draft. Now to type it.

Everything on my desk was shoved on top of or under the bed. Oh, no! The rough draft was suppose to stay on the desk! Ah, there it is. The ol' black typewriter was lugged out of its sanctuary in the closet. Now to find the typing paper. I believe I saw some under the dictionary on the bookcase. Oh, yes!

I clickety-clacked on that machine for three hours, eighteen minutes and twenty-seven point two seconds. I drank hot, black coffee to keep myself awake. Finally, I was finished. Voila! The standard American term paper. (Incidently, I received an A- on it. I probably would have got an A+ if I remembered to sign my name).

Next on the agenda was my report. Let's see, where was that book? As before, I never found anything without first rummaging through waist-high miscellany around my desk. Fortunately, this report could be hand-written. I wrote it up in six hours, seven minutes and twenty-three point five seconds. I arranged the pages in order and numbered and stapled them. I then put the report in my notebook to surrender it over to the teacher.

Now the frantic, last minute cramming for the tests. One hour at this book, one hour at that, and in-between, bits and pieces of another.

The day of glory finally arrived. January 25, 1974 was here! The term paper and report were handed in. I mumbled sentences, trying to memorize concepts, words and ideas. The teacher stepped down the aisle handing out our tests. Forty minutes later, a sigh of relief escaped my soul . . . . .

But not for long! Six minutes later the process was repeated. Finally, at the end of a long day, 2:15 arrived and a wild scream and yelp of joy was emitted from my mouth. The semester was over!

Now that I look back, the end of the semester wasn't so bad after all. (All I have to do now is wait for report cards!)

In our senior year
The time went by like sand in a dial.
Slowly at first, then faster and faster, ending in a whirl wind of activities.

We face this flow of time together, side by side,
Strengthened by our unification.

A Senior Remembers

Sitting here alone, I let my memory wander back over the past four years. It has been hard as what is still to come. I can remember those long hours of studying for a "Cooley test," crying over a paper that just will not come out right, feeling that all I ever do is work, and hoping that my grades will be all right.

But along with the frustrations, there was also plenty of fun. Yelling at the top of my lungs for the "Mighty Majors" on a freezing Friday night, pounding on the bleachers at an exciting basketball game, holding my breath as I watch a baseball sail over the fence for the winning run of the game. I remember going to plays and band concerts, then afterwards to Shakey's or to McDonald's.

I'll always remember how lost I was for the first week at the new building. I don't think I'll ever get used to open classrooms and tables instead of four walls and desks.

No matter where I am or what I do, Mount Vernon will always have a special place in my mind and heart. Through the rest of my life I will carry these memories with me.

The days pass into months and the months quickly fade away into the years. Time seems to pass us so rapidly, and when we look back, we wonder what we have accomplished in all of those lost days. But as we face each new day, new challenges arise that prompt us to deal with new situations and overcome the problems that confront us.

We always have to deal with new situations. This year in particular, we faced a new situation dealing with unfamiliar and alien surroundings. We were asked to accept a new building, new ways of teaching, a changed administration and the loss of many Mount Vernon traditions. This upheaval came as a great challenge to many, but together as a student body, we fought most of the battles and conquered the problems. We lived through the days and altered with each new experience; changing our familiar patterns.

The purpose of a yearbook is not to photograph and record all the events of a school year, but to record those pictures which spark memories; memories of friends, of classes, of happenings in school life. Between these covers are recorded glimpses of various events, memories of a school year. We hope that SURVEYOR 1974 contains your memories of this past year.
